Alleged Confederates of Eight Saboteurs Face Treason or Espionage Charges.

Federal Agents Continuing Round-up; Conspirators May Be Called to Trial.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The 14 alleged confederates of eight German saboteurs may be called to testify at their trial before a military commission, it was believed today.

The alleged confederates themselves face the possibility of death for giving aid to enemies of the United States.

A precedent for charging the 10 citizens among them with treason is found in the case of Max Stephan of Detroit who two weeks ago was convicted on such a charge for aiding a German an officer who escaped from a Canadian military camp He has not been sentenced yet

The four Germans among the alleged confederates can be charged with espionage. Both treason and espionage charges carry a maximum penalty of death.

The round-up of confederates of the Nazi saboteurs who were landed in this country by submarine to carry out a mission of destruction against war establishments was believed to be continuing as the trial of the saboteurs entered its sixth day

Announcement of the arrest of the 14 alleged confederates was made yesterday by Attorney General Francis Biddle They included the parents of one saboteur, Herbert Hans Haupt, who not only had time after his landing in this country to make "contacts" in Chicago but to attiance himself to a shapely Chicago brunette who since has jilted him

In addition to Haupts parents, Mr and Mrs Hans Max Haupt of Chicago, the alleged confederates included his uncle and aunt Mr and Mrs Walter Froehling also of Chicago and Mr and Mrs

Soviets Check Caucasus and Moscow Drives

Battle Parachutists, Flame-Throwers, Heavy Tanks In Kalinin Region, Smash At Nazis Making Surprise Thrust Toward Capital.

(By International News Service)

MOSCOW—Overcoming Nazi parachutists, flame-throwers and some of the heaviest tanks yet thrown into action, Soviet defenders of Moscow and the Caucasus repelled wave after wave of German troops today.

On the Kalinin front, where a grave menace to Moscow developed overnight, the German offensive was checked at two points and the Nazi area of operations considerably reduced.

Stubborn Russian resistance blasted any Nazi hopes of launching a new "blitz" attack against the capital.

Front-line dispatches from the south said that the Voronezh sector was turned into a "veritable hell" when the Germans started using flame-throwers after dropping great numbers of parachutists in the Kalinin region.

The Russians were able to counter-attack, however, throwing huge numbers of men against the left flank of main enemy forces west of the Don

Huge waves of tanks were hurled against the German anti-tank barriers piercing them at weak points and inflicting heavy losses on the enemy The German line was bent toward the south

Behind the flame-throwers Nazi Field Marshal Fedor von Bock sent in masses of tanks and motorized infantry forces under protection of smokescreens

(The Exchange telegraph agency in London received a dispatch from Moscow stating that the Russians had launched a powerful counter-attack over a wide area against the German left flank along the banks of the Don in the vicinity of Voronezh.)

Paratroops dropped near Kalinin from huge transport planes of the Nazi Luftwaffe were wiped out the Red army said in a supplement to its regular mid-day communique

All army and navy knitting now in the hands of chapter workers must be turned in to headquarters by Aug 1 for shipment, Miss Van Gundia said

Final Tally Shows County Gave 274 Tons Of Rubber

Making one of the best showings of any county in Ohio in the scrap rubber drive Richland county collected 547 888 pounds of old rubber to go into the nation's war production machine, a final tabulation showed today.

The final total represented nearly eight pounds of rubber for every one of the 73 000 persons in the county, meeting the goal set at the start of the drive according to C L Hattenfels chairman of the county scrap rubber collection committee.

A spurt in collections at the close of the campaign which ended last Friday helped to bring the county's total up to the 274-ton figure with approximately 24 tons added in the last two days of the drive.

There was no report available today on the collection of household fats which began yesterday

By the end of 1943, he said, the synthetic rubber program will have expanded to 338,000 tons.

Boards See Little Effect In County From New Draft Order

An elaborated draft set-up announced in Washington last night, was expected to have little effect on procedure of Richland county's three draft boards officials said today though they had not yet received official notice of the new plan

The new order was announced by Selective Service Director Lewis B Hershey It broke down the four categories set up some time ago to give further protection to family groups

However since they are under orders to fill all draft calls, local board officials pointed out that the new set-up would have little effect here, since they have practically exhausted their supplies of single men

The local boards were instructed by orders sent out last night to fill their quotas in this order

1 Single men with no dependents

2 Single men who do not contribute to the war effort but who have dependents,

3 Single men with dependents and who contribute to the war effort,

4 Married men without children who are not engaged in the war effort

5 Married men without children who are engaged in the war effort,

6 Married men living with wife and children or children only and who are not engaged in the war effort

SIGNAL: Bastille Day Brings Attacks On Axis Oppressors

(By United Press)

LONDON—The anniversary of France's Bastille day was a signal for demonstrations throughout Europe against Axis oppression today, and in Yugoslavia, the chief of the German Gestapo, Major Helm, was reported shot and killed as he walked along Zagreb's main street.

Yugoslav officials here reported the shooting and said other Gestapo agents walking with Helm fired at passersby and at the window from which they believed the shots which killed Helm had come They also reported that patriots in Zagreb Gradski and Podrum throwing hand grenades had killed and wounded about 700 of the enemy.

A French underground army, promised a second front, early deliverance and revenge on their oppressors were defying the Germans on an increasingly large scale

REPULSED: Axis Driven Back In Lunge On Egyptian Front

CAIRO—Axis armored forces have been repulsed in another eastward lunge on the Egyptian corridor battle front and the enemy has been hit heavily by the RAF despite desert sandstorms, British headquarters announced today

The enemy attacked with tanks and truck-borne infantry at the coastal end of the battle line west of El Alamein yesterday a communique said and there was contact also between opposing columns inland on the southern end of the line but there was no indication which side was on the offensive there.

As the land front flared back into action, Britain harried the Axis Mediterranean supply lines flying with the great guns of her fleet and far-reaching bombers of the RAF to choke off reinforcements for the enemy and whittle down his reserves of machines and supplies.

Administration Spurs Fight To Maintain Price Controls

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON —The administration pushed its fight to keep the price control structure unchanged today in the face of farm group pressure from both sides of the capitol

As the senate entered its second day of debate on changes Price Administrator Leon Henderson declares would cripple much of the program, the house agriculture committee came forward with sharp criticism of his policies.

In a formal report on a crop loan bill the house committee declared it was "very apparent the price administrator is not concerned about parity" because under present ceilings "practically all farm products are selling below parity"

A parity price is one which would give crops the purchasing power they enjoyed from 1909 to 1914 The bill approved by the house committee would authorize government loans to farmers up to 100 per cent of parity

The administration's fight in the senate is against restrictions on OPA expenditures written into a pending $1,856,000,000 supplemental money bill by the senate appropriations committee.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky told the senate yester-

County Gets Additional Bins As Wheat Crop Harvest Begins

With Richland county's wheat harvest just getting under way, the federal government today had taken its first step to alleviate the grain storage problem in the county.

Two large wooden bins have been erected at the Hanley Milling company in Mansfield by the AAA and Commodity Credit corporation for the storage of old wheat from approximately a dozen county farms Removal of old grain from farms will leave room for the new crop

One of the bins with a capacity of 1,590 bushels had been filled today and Guy L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, said at least five additional bins probably will be built in the city before the end of the harvest season.

County grain dealers had their first big day of the harvest season yesterday as the heat dried out grain and enabled farmers to get their combines into action. Most elevators were receiving considerable grain again today for immediate sale

Wheat from most sections of the county is said to be of good quality

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I SEE by the drama pages that "Jane Eyre" is being fashioned into a motion picture, and I have a strong premonition that the classic Bronte novel will undergo a few sharp, if minor, changes before it hits celluloid.

Problem No. 1 for the moguls is, I would say, the character of Rochester and I shall be fascinated to learn how they meet it. Will they permit the dour hero to keep his name, or will they change it on the theory (undoubtedly correct) that most movie-goers will confuse him hilariously with Jack Benny's most famous stooge?

Kilgallen

Personally, I think they had better rechristen the brooding fellow Dorchester, or Syracuse or Albany—or else let him play the part in blackface.

One of the major attractions for me in the Stadium Summer concerts—besides the opportunity to hear Tschaikovsky in the unexpurgated, or pre-Freddy Martin, version—is the fun of observing the serious music lover in his native habitat.

A symphony bug, is in his way, as weird as the jitterbug, and can also be classed into various groups.

First, there is the hummer, corresponding to the whistle-and-stamp genus of jitterbug. Unimpressed by the fact that most composers score their works for 100-odd men, he makes his own contribution to the orchestration. Beethoven brings this type out in force, and it is not unusual to hear the entire balcony section chime in when the orchestra swings into a major theme.

Second, there is the intense, highly aesthetic listener. He sits silently but in a pose of concentrated emotion that is far more distracting than the hummer's cheerful bum-bum-bum. His usual attitude is chin cupped in hand, face up to the stars, faraway look in eyes. (His jazz counterpart is the intense youth who mumbles "Oh, solid!" during a hot lick.)

The other species are less numerous, but quite distinctive. There is the fellow who has read the program notes, and at the emergence of a new melody whispers solemnly: "This expresses the composer's distress at the death of his fifth wife," or "This was originally a Bavarian folk song called 'Auf der Lindenbaum'." There is also the "sh-shh-er" who waits fretfully til somebody coughs slightly and then blasts out an angry "shhhh!" that blasts out the brasses.

And lastly, there is the fellow with absolute pitch, who writhes in sheer pain when a wrong note is played. His reaction to a faulty note from the tuba could not be more agonized if the musician had hit him over the head with the instrument.

A strange and mysterious lot they are, but I love them dearly.

What am I? Oh, I'm a hummer!

Practically my favorite Gotham sight these days is Broadway from 6 to 8 o'clock in the evening, before darkness falls. Then all the marquee lights are ablaze, just as they were in times before the dimout, and a nostalgic New Yorker can wistfully picture them staying on all night, as they once did. And as they will again, some day soon ...Times suddenly change. I can remember way back when you didn't have to own a uniform to be a WAAC...I am both pleased and disconcerted by the way "Mrs. Miniver" has been staying on and on at the Radio City Music Hall. I love the picture and have seen it twice, but its endless popularity has kept me from the coolest, most luxurious refuge in town on sweltering evenings—the first mezzanine of Manhattan's favorite cinema citadel.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Set-seeing: Comes the revolution. Time stops in its tracks. Nothing is the same. Andy Hardy is talking back to the judge.

For five years now, picture after picture, Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone have shared those man-to-man talks. It's in "Andy Hardy's Last Fling" — and don't believe that title as long as the family series makes money—that it happens.

Coons

Andy is off to college, and the judge, an alumnus, wants to make the trip with him, introduce him to the dean. Andy knows that his college career will be "ruined" if the other boys see him being so sponsored, but he knows also that his father will be disappointed not to go.

* * *

Says Andy to the judge, "We've made a kind of habit of man-to-man talks, haven't we?"

"They've meant a great deal to me, Andy," says the judge.

Andy: "But they weren't really man-to-man talks. They were just a kid trying to hide that he only had a kid's troubles, but pretending he was grown up and trying to make it all seem important."

Then he goes on to say that this must be the real thing—man to man—and from then on Andy does all the talking.

After the scene Mickey Rooney mops his brow, turns to Stone and says: "Gee, I didn't know whether I could get away with that or not. Me! Telling you! It just doesn't seem right!"

The set of "Watch on the Rhine" is minus its star, Paul Lukas, and its principal supporting player, Bette Davis. Bette will be co-starred, of course, but the real starring role is Paul's. He played it for 11 months on Broadway, thus reviving movie interest in him. Bette chose the assignment, beginning work even before "Now, Voyager" was completed, just to get in her swat at the Nazis. The picture, like the play, is one of the most emotional and strongest of the anti-Nazi line, and at the same time one of the quietest.

If Paul and Bette are absent, an unforgettable character is decidedly present. George Coulouris. He's the villain.

George was the villain in the play, too, which makes Hollywood seem sort of quiet by contrast. Night after night, those 11 months and four more on the road, George got booed. Lukas and the others would get applause on the curtain calls, but George got only hisses.

"I guess it was a compliment, since I'm supposed to be an actor," he says. "But a man gets tired of hisses every night."

He figures, in compensation, that his villain will be remembered—as villains usually are. He wonders if movie audiences will boo, too. They may, he admits. But he won't be there, and he's glad of it.

Report $1-a-Day Steel Wage Boost Out

CITY INDUSTRY GATHERS 2,500 TONS OF METAL

Plants Cooperate in Salvage Campaign, Empire Mills Share in Benefit.

Through a cooperative scrap metal salvage campaign being carried on by industrial firms in the Mansfield area, more than 5,000,000 pounds—or 2,500 tons—of the vitally-needed scrap has been collected in the past six weeks.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, said today that the campaign, which was organized by the chamber, had been very successful to date and "that it is doubtful that a single piece of new scrap is being wasted.

In pre-war days, industrial firms had difficulty in finding places to dump scrap metal and sometimes had to pay high hauling charges. Today, the picture has changed and scrap is at a premium.

Routzon claims that the industrial salvage committee is helping not only the national war effort but is also aiding the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, which has been hard-pressed for scrap.

Empire is also profiting through a "cooperative" agreement with local junk dealers and industrial firms, Routzon said.

For instance, if another company has a large amount of scrap to sell, it would ordinarily sell it to a junk dealer.

The junk dealer is bound by government rule to supply industrial firms designated by the government. He cannot sell scrap to the Empire Sheet company without a government order.

If the original seller of the scrap wishes, however, it can sell directly to the Empire company, helping it to get scrap metal for production.

Routzon said that salvage foremen have been appointed in 130 industrial firms in Mansfield, Ashland, Shelby, Mt. Vernon, Bucyrus, Galion, Mt. Gilead and other cities in the Mansfield area.

These foremen keep a record of the scrap metal salvaged from their plants and forward reports to the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce where a record of the progress of the campaign is kept.

DAVEY BACKS KNISLEY RACE

Would Have Supported Miller For Governor; Split Looms In Rural Vote.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Former Gov. Martin L. Davey's endorsement of Clarence H. Knisley for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination may stimulate interest in the August primary campaign.

Probably the greatest surprise in Davey's statement endorsing Knisley was the declaration he would have supported former Mayor Ray T. Miller of Cleveland had Miller been a candidate.

Now that Miller's Cuyahoga county organization has backed Walter F. Heer of Columbus, Davey's endorsement of Knisley creates an anomaly of sorts in the political field.

Had the former governor endorsed Heer, there seems little doubt but that a Davey-Miller combination would have had considerable influence in Heer's behalf. With Davey and Miller now pulling in opposite directions, Heer's chances of receiving the nomination are not enhanced.

Davey's approval of Knisley probably will help him most in the rural sections, possibly to the detriment of State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson and former Congressman John McSweeney who probably have greatest strength among rural voters. Davey always had a strong following among rural Democrats.

Davey said he selected Knisley because he is of high ability and integrity, and would loyally support the president's war program. He did not say why he would have selected Miller had Miller been a candidate.

The former governor said his health would not permit him to take an active part in the campaign.

JUNE RELIEF COSTS DROP TO NEW LOW, $44 UNDER LAST MAY

Relief costs for Mansfield and Richland county which slid to the lowest figure in four years in May when they dropped to $5,545, slipped another notch downward in June, hitting a new low of $5,501.

This latest report, $44 lower than May's, partially supported the statement of J. Verne Finney, city-county relief director, that relief costs had just about hit "rock-bottom."

During June, the caseload was reduced by seven cases, leaving a balance of 86 cases including 245 persons. Of the 86 cases, 49 were family cases and 37 were single persons.

The total cost for Mansfield during June was $2,151 while the total for the county was $3,349. The city total included $614.27 paid for medical care for indigents while the county paid $1,035.22 in the same department.

During June, 11 persons were certified for WPA work, 22 were assigned to projects and six failed to report because of sickness or other employment.

Twenty-three persons on WPA projects were laid off because of private employment or finished projects. At the end of the month, there were 200 persons employed on WPA projects throughout the county and 25 persons awaiting assignment.

The WPA Housekeeping Aid project cared for 80 families including 256 persons. Forty-one persons employed or the project spent 928 hours in training and 3,402½ in the homes of indigent persons.

STRICKEN AT 50

Mrs. W. F. Schneider Dies at Home Monday Evening.

Taken ill while she was alone in her home, 218 Richland avenue, Mrs. W. F. Schneider, 50, died unexpectedly last evening from a respiratory congestion.

Her husband, representative of an Akron rubber company, was away on a business trip and was located in Lansing, Mich. He arrived in Mansfield this morning.

Mrs. Schneider was born in Brooklyn Jan. 1, 1892. She and her husband had lived in Mansfield for the past several years. Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy McCabe, Dayton; three brothers, Herman and Fred Seigel, New York City, and William, Baltimore, and three sisters, in New York.

The body was removed to the Jones Memorial pending completion of funeral arrangements.

SEEKS $10,000 FOR ACCIDENT

Shelby Woman Files Suit for Traffic Mishap Injuries.

An action for $10,000 damages had been filed in Richland county common pleas court today by Pearl DeLong of Shelby as the result of a traffic mishap Feb. 4, 1941, on state route 96 east of Shelby.

Defendant in the suit is Clyde Imhoff, also of Shelby. Plaintiff, who was riding in a car with Richard DeLong, contends Imhoff suddenly made a left turn in front of them without signalling. Mrs. DeLong suffered injuries in the collision. Representing her is the law firm of Anderson and Will, Mansfield.

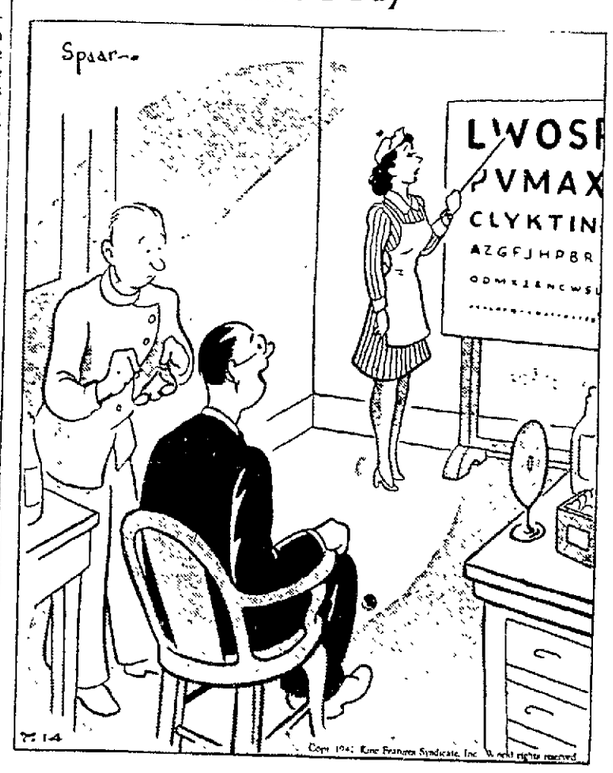
July 17, George Armstrong's office in Shelby; July 20, Weekley's garage in Butler in the morning and Stevens' store in Bellville in the afternoon; July 21, Shaffer's store in Shiloh in the morning and the Peoples' bank, Plymouth, in the afternoon.

July 22 to 31, Mansfield sales tax office in the courthouse basement.

Laff-a-Day



"What does E G B on the nurse's wrist watch stand for?"

If there's any epidemic of hayfever going around in Mansfield, the greater part of it is imagination, according to Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner. Dr. Wild said that several persons have complained to his department that pollen from ragweed is causing them hayfever grief. The health commissioner says that this is impossible, however, because no pollination is expected until about the end of the month. He believes a few persons may be affected by rose fever, which is similar to hayfever but is caused by flowers.

Beginning today Mansfielders will no longer be restricted in the number of packages they wish to send either to Greenland or Newfoundland. The United States postal order of April 20 that limited to one-a-week the number of packages that one person might send to another in a foreign country has been waived in regard to Greenland, Postmaster Herman E. Homberger was notified today, because of the hardships it subjected on that country's civilians. A similar waiver was made in respect to all civilian mail to Newfoundland because of the adequacy of transportation facilities.

When Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer found a bird band on the skeleton of a pigeon on the courthouse steps two weeks ago, he was curious about the identity of the person who had banded the bird. Now he knows. An inquiry to the state division of conservation brought the information that the bird was banded in 1939 by Marti Marzed of Toledo. The report of the bird's fate was passed on to Marzed by the conservation division.

The wrath of street department workers at motorists who drive over freshly painted traffic markings on downtown streets reached a climax this morning at the corner of Walnut and West Fourth streets. A heavy truck ignored the flag warning and drove over a sticky new white line—but the driver didn't get far. He was halted by violent shouts from the workmen. He got out of his truck. A minor traffic jam resulted. There was much honking and vocal comment. When the truck driver pulled away his face was nearly as red as the bricks he had exposed under the newly painted line.

WLB SOURCES SAY 50-CENT RAISE LIKELY

Board Expected to Vote Later In Week; Public Members Act as Balance.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Well-placed labor board sources said today the dollar-a-day wage increase demanded by "little steel" is out and a sum closer to 50 cents, more or less, is in prospect.

The board was not expected to vote before Thursday or Friday, but the discussions have been extensive enough to permit the preparation of tentative opinions by the four public members. Union security in the form of a maintenance of membership clause was regarded as a certainty by persons close to the board.

Industry and labor members of the 12-man board were said to be poles apart on the wage issue. The public members have voted as a unit and held the balance of power in all but one of the split decisions the board has handed down. These members have come to no decision on the exact amount of a wage increase in "little steel," the sources said, but have reached a general understanding on the formula that will be applied.

In congress Rep. Rich (R., Pa.) introduced a bill providing that whenever the labor board rules on the case the pay of all soldiers, sailors, marines and coast guardsmen "shall thereupon be automatically increased by the same amount as such increase in the compensation of workers in the steel's industry."

The labor board's decision on the demand of the CIO United Steelworkers is viewed as a keystone in the wartime wage structure. Directly it affects about 170,000 employes of Bethlehem, Republic, and Inland Steel, and Youngstown sheet and Tube companies. Almost as surely it will be applied to the 600,000 workers in the steel industry, and have an important bearing on the cases of about 400,000 automobile plant workers now before the board.

City Employes At Dayton Threaten To Leave Jobs

DAYTON —(AP)— City officials sought today to avert a strike set for 6 a. m., Wednesday by union members among city employes other than police and firemen.

City Manager Fred O. Eichelberger said he was notified by union officials that local 101 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal employes (AFL) had voted to strike unless demands were met for a blanket wage increase of 10 per cent, a 44-hour week, time-and-a-half for overtime and union security.

Charles J. Bauer, union business agent, said the strike vote was approved by 82 per cent of union members attending mass meetings last night of the waterworks, street department and sewage disposal employes.

No accurate estimate of the number of employes agreed to strike could be obtained.

W. W. Morehouse, water department director, said that a strike "threatened a shutdown of waterworks and consequent interference with production of local war industries."

Busy California Mayor Has Little Time Off to Eat

BERKELEY, Cal. —(NS)— Find it hard these days of wartime duties to get a bite of lunch?

So does Mayor Frank S. Gaines, of Berkeley, Cal. Before leaving home in the morning Mayor Gaines stows away in his brief case a couple of coffee rolls or other breakfast pastry.

His duties as Mayor of Berkeley, president of the Berkeley Defense Council and assistant regional director of the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense keep him busy shuttling back and forth between Berkeley and San Francisco.

He commutes between the two cities via electric trains over the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and while enjoying the scenery of San Francisco Bay unwraps the pastry and has his lunch, thus solving the problem of how to eat lunch while holding down three jobs.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, JULY 14, 1942.

Some folks seem determined to demonstrate that a thing can't be made "foolproof."

Some selfish people are thinking how much pleasanter driving will be when other people have to lay up their cars.

According to a Philadelphia beautician, "blushing is good for the complexion"—but mightn't the treatment be a little severe?

Senator Proposes Seizure of Cars

FURTHER confusion of the public mind may be expected to result from the bill introduced yesterday by Senator Reynolds, of North Carolina, "giving the president power to buy or requisition automobiles."

This follows a recent statement by President Roosevelt that he would seize tires if such a step became necessary "to win the war."

Certainly—if the point is reached at which winning the war becomes dependent on sacrifice of tires, cars, or any other privately owned property, confiscation will be a quite proper course.

An article by J. C. Oestreicher, International News Service foreign editor, which appears elsewhere on this page, tells of Nazi precautions in connection with today's observance of Bastille day in France, and gives an idea of what could happen here in the event the United Nations lose the war.

But—have the people of the United States been kept so much in the dark as to the probable outcome of the war that the prospect of defeat has become sufficiently imminent to justify such a radical step as Senator Reynolds proposes?

What seems more likely is that this is another of the ill-advised "scares" which some associates of government appear to think will increase the "war consciousness" of the American people, and possibly result in greater conservation of tires and gasoline.

Gasoline rationing, as a rubber conservation measure, is much more probable than tire confiscation, and judging from the volume of high-speed, long distance unnecessary driving still in vogue on main highways, some such restriction will become necessary.

Considering the damage it would do to necessary civilian transportation, it appears that tire seizure would come only as an act of desperation, and if such a crisis in the war effort is approaching the American people have not yet been told about it.

Only 'Approved' Gambling Permitted

MANSFIELD'S status in the state-wide move to clean up on commercialized gambling, in an effort to turn gambling losses into support of the national war effort, is apparently quite satisfactory to the city administration—in the absence of any public demand for betterment.

Comment by Police Chief Bell on the subject is interesting, being to the effect that "a regular check is being kept on it (gambling) to prevent it from flourishing."

The candidness of this statement is commendable as it indicates the police department and administration are aware of the extent to which illegal gambling is going on in Mansfield and are alert to keep it from getting out of approved bounds.

Effort to determine just what constitutes "organized" or "wholesale" gambling, of which Chief Bell says there is none in Mansfield, may be rather confusing, as some of the gambling methods being tolerated here, presumably under "regular check," have been banned in many other Ohio cities, with confiscation of equipment and penalties inflicted on promoters.

Report from Cleveland, for instance, is that no "slots" nor pinball machines have been operated there since January 1; from other cities come reports that "numbers" rackets and bookie joints are on the banned list, and big-time commercialized bingo and promiscuous ticket-selling lottery schemes prohibited.

Complaints to Governor Bricker in regard to gambling conditions in several cities brought a reply that this was a matter for handling by local authorities, which puts enforcement responsibility up to the police department, under direction of the mayor—and leaves investigation by a county grand jury as the alternative in the event of nonfeasance by city authorities.

Fats Needed To Win the War

NOW the campaign is to save waste cooking fats as a part of co-operation with the national war effort. It is explained that fats—both vegetable and animal—yield glycerine, which is used in the manufacture of high explosives.

It is estimated that the average household will be able to contribute about two pounds of such fats a month, which runs up an appreciable tonnage when all families, hotels, restaurants, hospitals and other potential sources are bulked.

Just as the Scotch proverb puts it, "Many a mickle makes a muckle," and each grain of sand contributes to the completeness of a bathing beach, so every drop of fat that would otherwise go into the garbage can will perform its own small service in carrying on the war.

It is explained that the United States depended largely on the Philippines and other far eastern countries for vegetable fats used in manufacture of explosives. These sources are closed, so it becomes necessary for home kitchens to provide vital fats.

Those Stolen 'Use Tax' Stamps

THEFT of "use tax" stamps from automobiles has apparently been made too easy by car owners, although the soaking-off process must take considerable time and involve chances that scarcely seem justified by the stamp value.

Motorists will do well to fill in the blank spaces on the back of their stamp, make a record of the serial number that appears on the face, and also write their name and address across the face of the stamp, for identification.

It is also assumed that the stamp has been pasted on the inside of the windshield, which makes it difficult to steal—IF THE CAR IS LOCKED.

As Robert Quillen sums it up: "If you show the bright side, you are a wishful thinker. If you point out follies you have no faith in America."

There are said to be 29 varieties of synthetic rubber—but apparently not enough of any one to tire people.

Home Smells

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

REMEMBER the way your mother's kitchen used to smell? Mine's smelling that way now. Boiling tongue on the back of the stove . . . "coddled" apples simmering, ruby red, in their thickening syrup . . . boiled potatoes with onions, celery and hard-boiled eggs cooling in the mixing bowl, ready for tomorrow's salad.

Smells . . . pungent, spicy, aromatic, homey smells of hand-made food and home-made love and service—they do something to the heart. Fragrance of the new-mown alfalfa steaming in the sun . . . smoke of brushwood and leaves burning in the autumn twilight . . . these are as vitally a part of our American way of life as the Constitution itself. They are the symbols of a freedom and friendliness which have no place in the war machine. They hold within their fragrant essence the songs we sang as little tykes in Sunday school, the dreams we dreamed as we trudged home from the old swimming hole . . . the dawning awareness of the meaning of democracy. Each home a little nation in itself, a self-supporting nation, but also a unit in the framework of all the other nations.

Home smells. How seldom we mention them, and yet I believe they are the very roots of our nation. They are the sign and guarantee of the finest way of life humanity has ever conceived. Smells as simple as the soil from which they spring, as heartening as that soil's own vigor, as inspiring as the dreams which come from the ordered comfort of a home.

I'm thinking often of those smells today and what they have meant in American history. And I'm wondering what America would have done without them. I'm wondering if America would be worth the saving if we eliminated all the homely tokens that called to men, trudging home in the twilight, or sent them out eager into the dawn with good coffee and bacon and flapjacks bracing their ribs and hearts.

I'm thinking of these smells because I believe they are the very core of American life and that it's dangerous—terribly dangerous—to cut them out of the picture with new programs and priorities.

It is possible for a nation to spend so much in defending itself that there is nothing left worth while defending. We can win this war; there's no doubt of that. But what will we have left when we've won it?

Liberty and equality—there are great things to fight for. But let us ascertain that in fighting for them we retain the things that made them dear and desirable. What use is a way of life unless it be sweet and inspiring to flesh and mind and soul . . . unless it makes a man feel the importance of his own life and shelter . . . the dignity of his own individual struggle?

I'm thinking about these things today as I watch the taxes mount . . . see the women swarming enthusiastically into defense work and army life.

Fight? Of course we have to. But is it sane and safe to put all the emphasis on the bombers and the commandos and tanks? Is it prudent to throw all our money and manpower into some front line? Or might we be wiser if we bent some of our effort toward perpetuating those things we have already achieved . . . a lamp at night in the window . . . a bowl of soup on the table . . . the quiet and comfort and security of the little lives that may never be able to spend much for war bonds but can, nevertheless, keep that faith on which America was founded.

Hints On Etiquette.

It is perfectly all right for a girl to ask a young man to her home, with a few other young people, to dance to the radio or phonograph, and to a little supper afterwards. She need not be self-conscious about it.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. Governor's island.
2. No. To grow larger, a hard shell crab must first shed his soft shell to grow a new one, a hard shell. Soft shell crabs are those caught during this period of moulting, which occurs in the summer.
3. Ninety-five per cent, with tin and zinc making up the other five per cent.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This beau ideal of a soldier has what is known as dash. He enters a room as Jeb Stuart would enter a room. When he gets there, his presence fills it. He doesn't wear Stuart's plume, but if plumes were in order he would have one. His trousers are the only pleated trousers in the Army. The new summer officer's blouses do not have belts, but his has one. He is Brigadier General James Doolittle, who came to New York by devious ways, including Tokyo and Washington.

With him was Paul V. McNutt, and the occasion was an informal party given by an old friend, Charles E. Rochester, of the Lexington Hotel. Major General William Ottmann was there, and so was Brigadier General Wolf; there, too, was Captain John S. Baylis, of the Coast Guard, formerly captain of the Port of New York, but now en route to take command at San Juan, Puerto Rico. It was the first time I had seen Capt. Baylis in more than two years. He was a commander then.

YOU walked in and there were whole roasted turkeys and hams and lobsters. There was a special floral piece built of white and red carnations and orchids, which McNutt presented to Doolittle. Doolittle accepted it, then seized what appeared to be an African bush knife and carved out a huge slice of turkey. He seemed fascinated with the knife . . . "How about borrowing this," he called to his host. "If I get in trouble I could use it."

Over a platter of French-fried shrimp I said:

"General, I don't want to keep harping on this—but what were your reactions, what did you think when you came in there, in broad daylight, and saw Japan suddenly come up out of the ocean in front of you?"

"I was astonished," he said, "that we weren't anticipated at sea."

After they got that close, they knew they were going to do all the things they had set out to do.

JUST about then the door burst open, and, with bull-like roars, Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson came in. Confusion reigned. Johnson and Olsen are old pals of the general's. There was much loud talk and laughter. Paul V. McNutt, who is the handsomest man I ever saw, sank back on a couch and laughed for fifteen minutes.

Later, I sat in a corner and divided my attention between a strawberry pie and the general. Perhaps a dozen, maybe twenty, of his officer friends came in to greet him. When he shakes hands, you can feel it to the elbow. Having one son in the Army and another in West Point, he must be close to fifty. But he has the step of a tennis player. He's hard as a buck private marine.

When news of the Jap attack on Hawaii first broke last December 7, Doolittle was standing with several of his pals, in St. Louis, I believe. As one of the men who was with him recalls, Doolittle banged his fist against a table and said, "I'm gonna get in this."

It appears that Jimmy Doolittle knew exactly what he was talking about.

Russians Still Far From Beaten As Nazis Move Toward Caucasus

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

HITLER continued to purchase mileage in Russian territory at a terrible cost in German lives over the weekend, thereby increasing the danger of severance of the central and southern Red armies and bringing him nearer to his dream of crashing the gateway to the Caucasus.

There is perhaps small satisfaction in the fact that this advance was to be expected because of the weight of the Nazi attack. In assaying the position, however, we must take into consideration a fact to which the Bolshevists themselves point, namely, that the invaders have a long, bloody course to pursue before they can hope to cut off the approaches to the Caucasus from the north, for the Red line still holds.

The Nazi fuehrer is prepared to see a wholesale slaughter of his men in this all-out effort to hamstring the Russians and reach oil this year. The Reds are far from beaten, though, and are continuing their magnificent resistance, despite grave lack, of equipment. Hitler still has a long way to go, as the Muscovites remark, and time is working against him.

Some compensation for the Russian setbacks is to be found in the position of the battle for Egypt, where the British have further improved their position and were still retaining a very active initiative at latest reports. It would be a tragedy for the Allies if Nazi Field Marshal Rommel were to make a quick conquest of Egypt and then be able to throw his army against the Middle East while his master drove for it from the north.

Such a development might spell the difference between holding Hitler at the gateway to the Caucasus and being forced to let him through.

The growing initiative of the British in Egypt gives hope that General Sir Claude Auchinleck has received, or will receive in the immediate future, sufficient resources to enable him to make a big scale attack on Rommel, before the German himself gets the further aid which will enable him to resume his offensive.

If Rommel could be knocked out now, it certainly would put a much different complexion on the Hitlerian drive for the Middle East, and would moreover vastly ease the British position in the Mediterranean.

Advocate Use of Sailing Vessels

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — The suggestion that a big fleet of amateur motor boatmen maintain a chain of protection along the coast against submarines has started a lot of thinking in Washington on an entirely different tack. There are now some enthusiastic advocates of small sailing vessels—not to chase submarines: they would be useless for that—but to carry cargoes from near-by ports.

For example that huge amount of sugar in Cuba, lacking only transportation to Florida to knock the sugar rationing program into a cocked hat. It would be a reversion to the old "horse and buggy" days of the sea. But it is as practicable as a windmill—excellent when the wind blows, but not as economical in operation in NORMAL TIMES as the use of power.

Objections to the use of wind power disappear with many other economies and modern processes under the spur of war. To provide a war weapon nobody considers the expense. But this is true also of needs which have nothing to do with war production.

GASOLINE is being brought by tank cars from the oil fields, at a cost of more than 15 times what it would cost to transport by tanker. Average cost of moving gas by tanker is one mill per ton mile, by railroad about 15 mills per ton mile, by pipe line 2 mills if the line is used to capacity, 3 mills if it is used to 80 per cent of capacity, etc.

Now obviously an old-fashioned schooner, or smaller sailing craft, has passed into the discard so far as freight carrying is concerned simply and solely because it was cheaper to haul by power.

Why was it cheaper to use power than to use wind, which cost nothing? Because the sailing vessel required so much longer to make any given round trip. In the old days, at the rate of pay then in existence for sailors, this made little difference. But with modern requirements both as to wages and as to living conditions aboard ship a condition was produced where if the little vessel were becalmed a week the total profit on the voyage would be lost.

THERE is another important advantage, in view of present conditions, in using sail, if only small vessels are used. No one of them would be worth a submarine's time, shells, and, least of all a torpedo. An old-fashioned Chesapeake Bay "bugeye," a type of sailboat pointed at both ends, having a large forward mast and a short mast behind, operated with a centerboard so as to make the fullest use of contrary winds, with only two men aboard and some sixty to 100 tons of sugar, would present little temptation to a submarine captain unless he were running short of sweets.

Naturally it would take a swarm of small sail boats to make any dent in Cuba's sugar surplus, or to provide the states with all the sugar they need, but all that is needed really is encouragement. There are plenty of old men on Florida and Cuba coasts to man the little craft, including many who have been deprived of their normal occupations by the war. The boats are cheaply and quickly built. They require almost nothing for construction that is needed for any war purpose.

A larger type of wooden sailing ship is already under consideration for longer voyages, such as the bringing of coffee from Brazil.

Bastille Day Brings New Threat Of Sadistic Reprisals By Nazis

—By J. C. OESTREICHER

AS HIS ARMIES pounded relentlessly toward the coveted oil fields of Transcausasia, Adolf Hitler has abandoned all pretense of civilized rule over his conquered nations and has given Russia and the Rest of the United Nations proof of what they are fighting for.

On the eve of today's observance of Bastille day, which means to the average Frenchman what the Fourth of July means to Americans, his military and political minions promulgated a new series of repressive measures designed to halt all demonstrations or acts of violence against the German army of occupation.

In brief, they mean that the families and relatives of men suspected of terroristic acts will be shot or imprisoned and their children sent to reform school. Lidice, the Czech town that the Gestapo obliterated, henceforth will be the symbol of German government. In the conquered countries, parliament will be hangmen and the judge an executioner.

This news came from Paris, where the Gestapo unblushingly made public its confession that France refuses to bow peaceably to the "new order" and its brutal threat to exact sadistic vengeance upon men, women and children who chance to be related to any patriots who rise in violence against the oppressor.

Clearly the Nazis feared that Bastille day would not be allowed to pass without demonstrations that might easily flare into bloody riots.

Gen. Charles DeGaulle, the Free French leader, planned a broadcast appeal to his followers to take no action inviting cruel German reprisals. The Gestapo forbade any manifestations whatever in either the occupied or unoccupied zone although the day is a national holiday.

In the event an act of terrorism is committed, the offending patriot must surrender within ten days to French or German police or face this future:

1—Immediate death for himself if captured.

2—Death of all his near male relatives "in ascending line," as well as brothers-in-law and cousins over 18.

3—Sentence to hard labor in concentration camps of all women of the same degree of kinship.

4—Lodgment in reform schools of all children under 18 years of age of men and women subjected to these measures.

Thus the pattern of Nazi rule became crystal clear. Perhaps the worst feature of the new regulations, and perhaps the one which will stay the hands of Frenchmen itching to free their fatherland from serfdom, is the clause relating to children. The vision of little French boys and girls subjected to the process of transmogrification into "good Nazis" is quite enough to deter even the most valiant patriot from action.

A Farmer's Diary

Model Farm?

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I VISITED a farm at the edge of a fertile valley. The house was large, square, newly painted white. The iron fence, common some 50 years ago, glistened its jet blackness. The lawn was landscaped. Behind the house was the most perfectly planned garden I have ever seen. It was clean and newly cultivated, without a single weed. It actually disturbed me.

The great somber red barn had a new metal roof and every beam and rafter was straight. The mows were square and filled with good mixed hay. The barnyard was clean, littered lightly with straw. The pasture and cultivated fields were just as squarely planned, and even the winding creek was straightened into a diagonal line from one corner to the other.

On the dot of six, the metallic bell rang for supper. A splendid heavy team of chestnut sorrels came into view, followed at a distance by a tractor that was parked upon the barn bridge.

I asked the farmer, as he slid stiffly from the back of the lead horse and hurried toward the barn, if he was late.

"No—not exactly," he replied, never stopping his task of caring for the team. "This farm, though, pays because it's run like clockwork. My son and I haven't missed one milking time at 5:30 for six years. Have breakfast at 6:30 and are in the field before 7:30. It's the only way to get lots done and really make money. After all, money's what paints the buildings and plants that shrubbery — worth $20 apiece — and makes possible fat steers like them you see there, worth $80 right now.

"Come in to supper, if you can—but I'll warn you right now, your name won't be in the pot."

I thanked him and gladly left the premises.

Here was a model farm, but I could not be happy there. Things were too perfect—too smoothly clocked—everything had its price. Dollars, not neighbors, were the goal of every operation.

Here was a model farm—without a soul. How different the humbler man who grows trees because he loves them, and brings his fruit to market proudly, with the bloom still on. How different the land owner who is never too busy to make his neighbors love him, whose garden and lawn are planted for utility, beauty and charm, and for children's playing.

"Give me the poverty that enjoys true wealth."

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"You'd better eat all the spinach today, pop . . . because I think YOU'RE gonna have trouble with the father of the kid I licked this morning."

Timely Editorial

Difficult To Spot Spies.

The spy has long been a fascinating character in fiction. But in real life, as was pointed out in a recent news story in the Dispatch, he is merely a more or less ordinary individual, without any especial disguises and certainly without any glamour.

The eight picked up by the FBI and now on trial for their lives before a secret military tribunal could never have been spotted by any characteristics which would have marked them as spies in the popular mind.

The fact that they are not outwardly discernible to the casual observer gives much point to the many times repeated warning not to gossip, and especially not to gossip if you know anything about troop movements of other factors contributing to the war effort.

Spies are to all outward appearances merely people like ourselves who hide behind an ordinary exterior while they carry on their nefarious work.—Columbus Dispatch.

HARASSED RED ARMY RALLIES, CHECKS ENEMY

Stems Fierce Kalinin Region Attack and Surprise Thrust at Moscow.

chutists were destroyed by crack Rosivet riflemen before they reached the ground, it was said.

The use of paratroops by the Germans in the Kalinin area, 105 miles northwest of Moscow, was disclosed following announcement in a special communique that Russian forces had withdrawn southwest of Rzhev, 135 miles to the west and slightly north of the capital in the face of superior numbers of German troops.

Terrific fighting continued to rage in the vicinity of Voronezh, at the northern end of the 200-mile Ukraine front, and in the region of Baguchar on the central sector.

The Red army high command in a previous communique revealed that German Field Marshal Fedor von Bock's armies in the eastern Ukraine had pierced the defenses of Voronezh, key city on the Moscow-Rostov railway. Some 140 miles to the southeast in the vicinity of Boguchar the Nazis were pressing their advance through fierce tank and infantry battles and forced a further withdrawal by Soviet troops east of Lisichansk, 200 miles below Voronezh.

At noon today the Soviet high command said that there were "fierce engagements throughout the night in the Voronezh area and also south of the town of Boguchar."

No important changes were reported elsewhere.

The hard blows by Nazi forces on the Rzhev and Kalinin fronts were seen as a possible opening drive against Moscow, while a new thrust eastward from Taganrog in the deep south of the Ukraine was made by the Germans in an effort to speed their march on Rostov, passageway to the Caucasus.

The special announcement concerning the battling northwest of Moscow said that the Soviets made a withdrawal southwest of Rzhev after heavy losses were inflicted on numerically superior German forces

The Nazis, it was said, were made to pay a heavy price for their gains in that area, losing 10,000 men who were killed between July 2 and July 13. The announcement said also that 200 German tanks were destroyed along with 70 guns, 30 armored cars and 50 planes.

Russia, it was added, lost 7,000 in killed and wounded men.

An estimated 2,000,000 troops were locked in battle along the extensive battlefront stretching 650 miles from the Kalinin area to the vicinity of Taganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov. Along this line was raging the furious fighting for control of the navigable Don river and the north-south Moscow-Rostov railway.

A war commentator of the Moscow radio said that battling was in progress around the walls of Voronezh, 10 miles east of the Don, but declared that the Germans had failed to encircle the city or destroy the Soviet forces operating there.

Other reports said that although the Germans control a 10-mile front before Voronezh from bridgeheads on the east bank of the Don the whole area is under constant fire from Soviet guns.

Germans Claim Russian Advances

BERLIN—(By Official German Wireless) —(INS)—German advances on the southern sector of the Russian front have been extended, the German high command claimed today. Additional Soviet positions were said to have been penetrated.

German tank units northwest of Voronezh encircled a number of Soviet units, it was asserted, and Russian attacks on several sectors of the central front were dispersed.

(The Germans made no mention of their own offensive around Rzhev and Kalinin, directed at Moscow.)

In Egypt, there was local fighting only in the El Alamein area, it was stated, but 12 British planes were shot down during the day.

German submarines were credited with scoring two torpedo hits on a tanker in convoy off the coast of Palestine. Attacks continued on airdromes at Malta.

Netherlands On 'Invasion Footing'

LONDON —(AP)— German occupation authorities were reported today to have put the Netherlands on an "invasion" footing and enforced new defense precautions in Belgium and northern France as the British press clamored with growing insistence for a second front to help Russia.

A Dutch government spokesman said information had been received that many important German military offices at The Hague had been moved inland following a tour of Holland by Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt.

Japs Complete Arc, Lose in Kiangsi Area

CHUNGKING—(AP)—The Japanese have completed an arc across coastal Chekiang province from Hangchow on the north to Wenchow on the south, the Chinese high command indicated today, but it said the Chinese in their counter-attack in Kiangsi province directly to the west had pushed the enemy back to the outskirts of Linchwan.

The Chinese communique said the Japanese had reached the environs of Wenchow on Saturday night.

In Kiangsi, Chinese dispatches said that the Japanese who had fanned out westward from Linchwan now were being pursued back into the city by three converging columns of Chinese. The Japanese force was estimated by a Chinese spokesman last week to number 30,000.

A Japanese attack on Ihwang, which has changed hands twice already, and now is held by the Chinese, was repulsed after a pitched battle lasting 12 days, the Chinese said. The town is 35 miles south of Linchwan.

Allied bombers destroyed a large number of Japanese military establishments on the Yangtze river below Hankow on July 1, the Chinese Central News agency reported today.

Since July 1 was the date regular United States air forces first went into action in China, it was assumed that "Allied" meant American planes.

Confederates of 8 Saboteurs Held by FBI; Round-up Reported Still on.

Otto Richard Wergin, friends of Haupt's family.

The Froehling home allegedly was to be used as a hiding place by saboteurs and as a clearing house of espionage data and information on the progress of the sabotage mission.

The Wergins' son, Wolfgang, according to Hoover, departed for Germany with Haupt a year ago Young Wergin is believed to be in Germany.

The aliens apprehended also included Mrs. Maria Kerling, wife of saboteur Edward John Kerling. She never had a chance to see her husband between the time he landed from a submarine near Jacksonville, Fla., and the time he was seized by the FBI.

The FBI charges that all the alleged confederates were aware of the sabotage mission and that one, Wergin, offered to assist Haupt.

The trial, still highly secret, appeared to be moving more expeditiously late yesterday on the basis of the evening "communique" of Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, president of the commission.

McCoy disclosed that the FBI counterespionage agent who had been on the stand since Saturday had completed his testimony and the remainder of the afternoon session was devoted "to the examination and cross-examination of certain other government witnesses."

The FBI agent was the ninth witness called since the trial began last Wednesday. Further count of those heard was impossible as McCoy failed to disclose the number called after the agent left the stand

Offers Services Of CAP To Red Cross, CD Council

The Mansfield group of the Civil Air Patrol, composed of 350 volunteer airmen and 85 aircraft was placed at the disposal of both the Richland county chapter of the American Red Cross today for disaster relief duty, and the county civilian defense council

The offer was made by Commander James R Harrington, in letters to both organizations today.

The letters pointed out that CAP maintained a base at Mansfield airport with a total of 150 men and women and 27 planes available for emergency work.

Harrington's letter to the Red Cross explained that reserve strength based at Marion, Wooster, Sandusky and Lorain, could be used to ferry personnel and supplies throughout north central Ohio in the event commercial transportation and communications were put out of service.

His letter to the defense council offered the service of the patrol in spotting illumination during test blackouts and suggested the possibility of fliers staging a mock air raid for the purpose of training ground personnel.

Pearl Harbor Hero Gets Bars

Joseph Lockard, who, as a private stationed near Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, was the only man to detect approach of the Jap planes, now has received his award. He is pictured, left above, as Brig. Gen. George L. Van Deusen pinned the single gold bars of a second lieutenant on his shoulders at Fort Monmouth, N. J., where Lockard graduated from officers' candidate school in the signal corps. Lieutenant Lockard's bride smiles proudly, center. Lockard, working in free time, heard the Jap planes through an aircraft detector, but his warning went unheeded.

a registrant must have been married before Dec 8, 1941, and must be living with his wife or children.

To guide local boards on whether a man is engaged in the war effort, draft headquarters issued a list of 34 essential activities.

In granting deferment for occupational reasons the board must first decide whether a man is engaged in one of those activities and then determine that his particular job makes him a "necessary man."

Also, the firm in which he is employed must be fulfilling a war contract, performing a government service or a service necessary to civilian life in support of the war effort, or he must be supplying material for such firms.

The essential activities were:

Production of aircraft and parts; ships, boats and parts; ordnance and accessories, ammunition; agriculture; food processing; forestry, logging and lumbering; construction, coal mining; metal mining; non-metallic mining and processing and quarrying; smelting, refining and rolling metals: production of metal shapes and forgings; finishing of metal products, production of industrial and agricultural equipment; machinery; chemicals and allied products; rubber products; leather products; textiles; apparel; stone, clay and glass products; petroleum, natural-gas and petroleum and coal products; transportation equipment; transportation services; materials for packing and shipping products; communications equipment; communications services; heating, power and illuminating services; repair and handtrade services (blacksmithing, armature rewinding, electrical and bicycle repair, automobile repair, harness and leather repair, clock repair, tool repair and sharpening); health and welfare services; educational services; governmental services.

report of British headquarters and the RAF.

"Our fighters, fighter-bombers and light bombers attacked landing grounds in the El Daba area, a column of tanks and large concentrations of vehicles.

"All attacks were successful, some tanks being destroyed and at least six enemy aircraft were shot down in addition to others destroyed on the ground."

All these air operations, including a battle over Malta yesterday in which at least five enemy raiders were destroyed and others damaged, cost the British only one plane.

RAF Attacks Ruhr Valley Objectives

LONDON — (AP) — A strong force of RAF bombers attacked industrial objectives in the Ruhr valley last night in their fourth raid on Germany this month, the air ministry announced today.

The German high command said the British bombed the important industrial city of Duisburg, about 15 miles north of Duesseldorf, between the Ruhr and the Rhine. Duisburg has many blast furnaces and metal plants and is an important coal and iron ore center. It has a population of about 275,000.

"Many fires were left burning," a communique said. Five of the raiding aircraft were reported missing.

Flying conditions still were not ideal last night, the British informant said, but he added the loss of five planes was not proportionately large.

Three Mansfielders Fined After Mt. Vernon Club Raid

MT. VERNON — Three Mansfielders, one the owner of the Sunset club, south of here, were fined yesterday when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Harold A. Bishop on gambling charges.

Their arraignment of the men followed a raid on the club early Sunday by Knox county authorities during which the officers confiscated four slot machines. The charges were filed by Knox county Sheriff Charles R. Lawrence, who, with County Posecutor W. Thurman Todd, led the raiding party.

John Hergatt, the proprietor, was charged with maintaining a room for gambling, and Chester Nail, whom Todd said owned the machines, was charged with exhibiting gambling devices. Both were fined $200 and costs. Verne Reed, an employe, also charged with exhibiting gambling equipment, was given a suspended fine of $50 on payment of costs. All pleaded guilty.

Todd said Reed was arrested at the time of the raid and that warrants were issued yesterday for the arrests of Hergatt and Nail.

On recommendation of Prosecutor Todd, the court ordered the confiscated machines smashed. Todd said today he would make a full report of the convictions to the state liquor board since the club maintains a night club liquor dispensing license.

day the limitations would strip Henderson of virtually all of his authority over prices.

Barkley objected specifically to a committee-approved provision requiring the secretary of agriculture to certify prices of processed farm commodities before Henderson could establish ceilings over those articles.

The committee amendment specified that the prices of these articles must be such that they reflected 110 per cent parity income to the farmer who produced the original commodity from which they were processed.

Barkley said this would prevent Henderson from fixing satisfactory ceilings on shoes, clothing and many other articles, but Senator McKellar (D.-Tenn) asserted that congress had directed in the original price control act that no ceilings be placed on these commodities until they reached the level reflecting 110 per cent parity.

PATRIOTS RISE AGAINST AXIS

Bastille Day Proves Signal For Attacks in France and Yugoslavia.

the mouth of the River Somme, and at Anviaux.

Lieutenant General Niehoff, German military commander at Lille, announced that 50 Communists had been deported for sabotage. Inasmuch as executions and deportations are German companion reprisals for sabotage it would appear that some patriots also had been shot.

It was against this rising tide of disaffection and the prospects that it would increase on Bastille day that General Oberg, chief of the Gestapo in France, ordered all male members over 18 of the families of French patriots accused of sabotage and attacks on Germans executed within 10 days if the patriots did not surrender.

Lieut. Gen. Alexander von Faulkenhausen, German military commander of the departments of Nord and Pas de Calais, France, and Belgium, announced yesterday that he had seized a "large number of hostages"

It was doubted that such threats would discourage patriots, although Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Free French—renamed the Fighting French to include patriots resisting in France—had advised against violence.

De Gaulle told his countrymen in a Bastille day message broadcast yesterday to put the Tricolor flag of "liberty, equality and fraternity" today, to walk the streets and to sing the national anthem, "The Marseillaise." He promised that the day was coming when the Germans and French traitors would be swept out and punished.

This is how he explained it: he said that as a follower of the teachings of Father Divine he experienced a "re-birth" as "Jacob Israel" in 1926, hence he is now but six years old!

and in good condition for storage. This year's crop may equal the big yield of 1941 and add to the storage problem, dealers said.

The bins already erected at the Hanley Milling company are 12 by 16 feet in size and 10½ feet high. They have been used for storing corn in Iowa.

Most of the wheat being stored in the government bins here has been taken over by the Commodity Credit corporation on loans granted county farmers, Taylor said.

The surplus of wheat and the large amount of grain stored in the past two years as security for government loans combined to give farmers in Richland county and most sections of the middle west their biggest harvest-time headache in recent years.

Farmers have been trying to solve their own storage problems by building additional bins on their farms and putting unused buildings in shape for storing wheat.

CHARGES OHIO DEFENSE FAULTY

McSweeney Says War Industry Centers Not Properly Protected.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Former U. S. Rep. John McSweeney of Wooster, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, charged today that defense preparations for Ohio's war industry centers was "definitely lacking and inadequate to meet the seriousness of today's conditions."

He said that the state's "current lack of adequate defense of vital war industry centers" was evidenced by "startling disclosures by the federal bureau of investigation."

McSweeney promised to inject "definite actions instead of mere words" into Ohio's civilian defense program and pledged Ohio's "wholehearted participation in the war effort" if elected governor.

CHILDREN WHO GO TO THE SCHOOL FOR THE

DEAF

NOW HEAR! AND ARE LEARNING TO SPEAK

Can you imagine a mother's joy when she watches her little boy, or girl, hearing, who has been deaf since a baby? Bell Telephone Laboratories' new Ortho-Tronic hearing aid is constantly doing this.

Deafness is no handicap to this young lady who now can live a normal life with her new Ortho-Tronic, made by Western Electric, makers of Bell telephones for over 60 years.

Ortho-Tronic is specially recommended for those who have nerve-deafness, or very nervous people. The special exclusive features in Ortho-Tronic enable people to hear beautifully again.

HEAR! LIVE AGAIN!
WHAT IS HEARING LOSS DOING TO YOUR SPEECH . . . AND THE VOICES OF THOSE YOU LOVE?
ASK YOUR DOCTOR ABOUT WESTERN ELECTRIC

IN BUSINESS, TRADE, OR PROFESSION
Many men and women have waited—until they were out of a job—to overcome their handicap and wear an aid. Hearing loss cannot be concealed—unless it is mistaken for sullenness or stupidity. Properly fitted with Ortho-Tronic you can hold your own in any normal job or position—and keep your voice and articulation natural.

HEARING HAPPINESS
The Ortho-Tronic takes the misery out of deafness and helps to restore the companionship of home and friends. Ortho-Tronic wearers are able to hear even a whisper at ranges up to four or five feet and conversational voice usually as far as normal hearing persons.

IN CHURCH OR THEATER
It is no longer necessary to sit in the very front of a church, theatre, or auditorium. With Ortho-Tronic you can hear from any position where a normal hearing person can hear, and talking pictures come through clearly.

AVOID STRAIN
Hearing loss generally involves severe nerve strain with many complications frequently arising. It puts a greater strain on eyesight to compensate. Often it tends towards nervous irritability. Today you can relax—and hear when you want to and need to with Ortho-Tronic.

INCONSPICUOUS, CONVENIENT, WEARABLE
Ortho-Tronic is worn in concealment by a woman and in a man is less conspicuous than a pair of spectacles.

THIS ATTORNEY SAYS:
"I changed to Ortho-Tronic because I had never been able to hear a voice intelligibly amidst noise or the background babble of other voices such as is prevalent in restaurants. The special tone-discriminator on Ortho-Tronic actually eliminates this very annoying objection of the other hearing aids."

ADJUSTABLE TONE DISCRIMINATOR

This was followed by an intermission. For her remaining numbers Miss Austin changed from a multi-colored formal, suiting the numbers which she had sung in various languages, to a white formal gown. The second part of the program was sung in English.

Fix Carrots That Taste Really Good

By BETSY NEWMAN

"Eat your carrots; they're good for you." How many youngsters have been given this admonition and still haven't liked carrots. They are good for all of us, and it is too bad if we don't like them. They contain Vitamin A content, which is very helpful in keeping the eyes in good condition. Many children will eat raw carrot sticks with relish, but they have to be coaxed to eat them cooked. There are a number of other ways to serve carrots that help make them appetizing for those who are not fond of this bright-colored vegetable.

Today's Menu.

Baked Shoulder Lamb Chops
Baked Potatoes
Carrot and Cabbage Salad
Beet Greens
Strawberry Shortcake
Coffee or Substitute

Carrot and Cabbage Salad.

1 bunch carrots 1 small cabbage
Salad Dressing

Grate or chop young carrots (they are at their best picked from your own victory garden and quickly washed), mix with an equal amount of shredded cabbage and serve with your favorite salad dressing. Cooked carrots are best steamed until tender, and served with butter and a sprinkling of parsley. Crisp carrot sticks are made by slicing the carrots into thin sticks, which are then crisped in ice water. A little lemon juice added to the butter served over carrots gives them a nice flavor, and a few drops of onion juice is a help if one likes the flavor. Chopped or grated carrot and peanuts are a pleasant combination for a salad. Mix and serve on lettuce. Carrots may also be combined with green peas or celery, or whole tender, cooked green onions.

Biscuit Shortcake.

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons all-phosphate baking powder.
A tablespoons shortening.

Sift flour, then measure and sift again with salt and baking powder; cut in shortening and mix to a soft dough with the milk, having milk as cold as possible. Turn dough onto well-floured board and roll or pat with the hand until it is about ¾ inch thick. Cut into individual biscuits or into 2 rounds that will fit into a medium sized pie tin. Bake in quick oven, 450 degrees F., for 12 or 15 minutes. Split biscuits or separate halves of rounds, butter, spread with berries, sprinkle with sugar, put other round on top, with berries and whipped, slightly sweetened cream. Or if you prefer the cake type of short-cake, use the following recipe for the cake:

Economy Shortcake.

2 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter
1 cup corn syrup
1 egg
2-3 cup milk
1 teaspoon orange rind

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter, add ½ cup syrup gradually, creaming until fluffy. Beat egg lemon colored, add remaining half cup of syrup, beating while adding. Stir in grated orange rind, add sifted ingredients alternately with milk to creamed mixture, mixing well after each addition. Bake in 2 oiled 8-inch layer pans in a moderate over (375 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. Spread bottom layers with sliced and sweetened berries, add top layer, top with berries and whipped cream if liked.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

For a long second I stared at Katharine, then I snapped into action.

"I suppose you think you'd be doing Jack a service by starting out again immediately," I told her scathingly. "You're too good a nurse, Katharine, to attempt anything as senseless as that. Your iron will can't carry you through everything, and if you should collapse your last hope of finding your husband would be gone."

"My head tells me you are right," she said, "but I simply cannot rest. I might as well be—"

"Oh yes, you can rest," I interrupted her ruthlessly. "Now please help me, not hinder me, and I promise you shall go out again just as soon as you can do so without swooning."

"What is it you especially want me to do?" she asked docilely, and I gave her a prompt answer.

"Tell me the sedative which will most effectively put you to sleep," I said. "If you have it with you, all right; if not, I'll telephone for it."

Sedative Tablets.

"I have some tablets in my purse," she said, with palpable reluctance.

"Please give them to me," I said, and she complied without demur.

"Now," I continued, "get into that bathroom quickly and take a hot bath. In the meantime I'll order up the very lightest of breakfasts, and I shall stand over you while you eat it. Then I'll tuck you into bed and give you the sedative."

She shuddered a little, then squared her shoulders.

"I know you're right," she said, "and I'll do my best to play up. But—oh, Madge!"

As soon as the bathroom door shut behind her, I sped to the camouflaged door which Dicky had left ajar between the two suites.

"I heard her," he said, "but I didn't have enough ambition to get up and close the door. If you'll close it now I'll prod myself awake and get up. You've had no breakfast, of course?"

Plans for Breakfast.

"No, but I'm ordering something for Katharine right away."

"It won't take you long to get her to sleep, will it?"

"I hope not," I returned.

"Then, why don't you write down what you want to eat and as soon as she's safely asleep flash me the news? I'll phone down the order and have them serve our breakfast in here."

"You forget, don't you that Adams is supposed to be in this room?"

"I did slip a cog there, Mrs. Omnipotent, but I'll amend that suggestion. I'll give you my order right now; then, when Katharine's safely asleep, you do the telephoning and flash me to come over. Where is Adams, by the way?"

"I don't know. I haven't seen him and Katharine said nothing about him except that she thought she had worn him out."

Back to Katharine.

"He's probably somewhere in the basement depths, figuring out how he's going to get back into the room without Milner finding out that he's been A.W.O.L. He'll be along, I fancy."

"I'm sure he will," I said. "But now I must get back to Katharine."

"I'll be with you whenever you give me the office," he said. Then I went back to my own bedroom and telephoned for Katharine's breakfast.

A few minutes later Katharine came out of the bathroom, her faint color and the lessening of the tragic lines around her mouth showing that the hot bath had given her beneficial relaxation. She miled wanly as she looked at me.

"Truly, I will be good, Madge," she said, as a penitent child might have done. "I'll do whatever you say."

"The Authority on Authorities"

GUESSES CAN BE COSTLY

THERE ARE two very good reasons for usually leading your partner's suit against the opponent's No Trump game contract. The first, and obvious one, is that it may result in taking some tricks in a department in which you know your side is well fixed, especially if you have a fair holding yourself in the suit. But the second may be more important still. Leading his suit saves you from a guess which may be disastrous. You may pick the very suit which will build up the needed tricks for the declarer. Hence it is well to have some very good reason before you decide to lead another suit.

	♠ J 4 ♥ 9 5 ♦ Q 10 7 4 ♣ Q 10 5 4 2
♠ 10 9 5 3 ♥ A 10 6 ♦ J 8 6 3 ♣ K 7	N W E S	♠ A K 6 2 ♥ Q 8 7 4 ♦ 2 ♣ 9 8 6 3
	♠ Q 8 7 ♥ K J 3 2 ♦ A K 9 5 ♣ A J

(Dealer: West North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Dbl
Pass	2 ♣	2 ♥	2 NT
Pass	NT

Just notice what was done to a contract bid that way at one table of a duplicate tournament. West led the 3 of his partner's spade suit to the K, and the 2 came back to the Q. South took his club A and led the J. West winning and two more spade tricks following, then the heart A, setting it.

It was beaten by the same lead at another table, where East won the first spade and switched to the heart 4, South playing low and the 10 winning for West, who then scored the heart A and led the 6 to give South two heart tricks. Even this could not give South nine tricks without having to lose a club to the K, whereupon another spade set him.

Nobody made that contract except the declarer who was favored by West making a "smart" lead of the diamond 3. That enabled South to take a loser in clubs while he still had every suit stopped. He won the diamond lead with the A, laid down the club A and led the J to the K. Now it made no difference what West did. Besides that club trick, all his side could get was two tricks in spades and one in hearts. As soon as South got the lead, the remainder of nine tricks were ready to run.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ None ♥ A Q 10 5 2 ♦ K 8 6 4 2 ♣ 10 9 5
♠ K 10 5 ♥ J 8 4 3 ♦ A Q 5 ♣ 7 4 3	N W E S	♠ A 2 ♥ K 9 7 ♦ J 9 7 3 ♣ A K Q J
	♠ Q J 9 8 7 6 4 3 ♥ 6 ♦ 10 ♣ 8 6 2

(Dealer: South, East-West vulnerable.)

How high would you bid, on the South cards of this deal, if you decided to open it for defensive purposes with a spade call?

HOROSCOPE

FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 15

Determined, direct and aggressive advance upon objectives and programs of major importance is encouraged by the concentrated influence of astral forces holding sway on this day. New projects should be pushed with vigor. Well-organized plans and practical constructive tactics may attract the attention and capital of powerful interests or promoters. In such cooperation it would be well to be alert to petty duplicities, or peculiar plots, but the energies and faculties are vividly alert.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to a year of high pressure especially in putting over important and greatly desired programs. This may be done with strenuous and aggresive attack, as the mental faculties and physical forces are well stimulated to powerful and decisive action. Major programs with practical and constructive foundations should be carefully planned and boldly presented to gain cooperation from promotional bodies. Slight trickery, subtleties or subterfuges should be guarded against.

A child born on this day should be bold, energetic, skillful and practical, with excellent mental as well as physical abilities. It may make its success by determination and sheer force.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Wee Willie Reinka is the latest member of last year's Mansfield Braves to enlist in armed service, but the chubby little outfielder may have to wait several months before he gets in the army.

He's enlisted in the air corps, but let's let Bill tell the story in his own way. Here's a letter I got from him yesterday, written from the Hotel McAlpin in New York:

Hello Rex: Just a line while on my vacation to let you know that I have enlisted in the Army air corps cadet selection program. I passed the mental exam on July 3rd and the physical on July 6th. We were sworn in on Thursday morning at 11 a. m. in the federal building in Detroit.

I am on ten days notice but may not be called for several months. I have to wait until there's an opening at one of the training fields. If I am fortunate enough to pass all my training in an acceptable manner I'll be commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army air corps.

How do you like the way Kuzava and Byers are going down in Charleston? It sure gives me a thrill to see the boys with their low earned run averages.

I believe I'm supposed to play in Findlay next Tuesday night. (That would be tonight.) I play for the Detroit Pepsi-Cola team in the Class A Federation league on Sundays.

Frank Ankenbrandt plays second base and is playing a great game in there. You may remember him from the days of Dewey Stover's managing.

Well, Rex, I hope everything is going all right down in Mansfield. Sorry not to have seen you when I was down the last part of May. Keep hustling, and best of luck. As ever, Bill Reinka.

* * *

Nice letter Bill, but who told you I was hustling in this hot weather? And thanks for the letter. It's the very nicest way of hustling out a column that I can think of.

Completing this mail column today comes a postcard from Joe Lesch, former head man in Mansfield's softball and basketball leagues, and manager of Yuncker Sports teams.

Joe writes from San Antonio, Tex.: "Boy, this army life at Kelley field is really tough, but swell so far. School, drill, calisthenics, cross country runs two to three miles. Getting along swell. How's everything in Mansfield?"

Some of Joe's old playmates in Mansfield sports might drop him a line and let him know "How's everything in Mansfield."

Yankees Regain Margin

Tribe and Red Sox Fail To Keep Pace.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

THE American league has just suffered another chill in the region of its pennant race.

The New York Yankees beat down the Detroit Tigers again yesterday 4-? and the Washington Senators surprisingly shut out the Cleveland Indians 7-0 in a night game.

These results, coming as they did on the heels of the Boston Red Sox' double somersault before the St. Louis Browns Sunday, placed an emphatic damper on whatever rivals were rash enough to think the world champions were collapsing.

* * *

All season long Detroit has been the most troublesome of the Yanks' opponents and the Tigers were tough to handle yesterday even though Lefty Gomez held them to four hits and fanned seven while going the route for the second time this year.

The Yanks' victory moved them five full games in front of the idle Red Sox.

The Cleveland Indians, who had won four straight and 11 of their last 14 (excluding a tie), meanwhile suffered a rude jolt at the nation's capital and saw their third place distance from the leaders swell to seven games.

Young Walter Masterson was the No. 1 boy for the Senators, holding Cleveland to three scattered singles while his teammates pelted three pitchers for ten hits.

* * *

In the only other game, also a night session, the Philadelphia Athletics nosed out the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 11 innings.

The only game scheduled in the National league, Philadelphia at Cincinnati, was postponed.

Mud Hens Start Winning Streak

(By Associated Press)

The Toledo Mud Hens, rewarded with 10 wins and only four losses for good pitching and snappy ballplaying the first half of July, shortly will travel west and it won't be at all surprising if they carry a fancy winning streak along with them.

Although they're far down in seventh place with only 42 victories and 47 defeats for the season, the Mud Hens have rung up seven straight triumphs, none more sparkling than last night's 2 to 1 success against second-place Columbus.

Johnny Marcum gave up only six hits, allowed nary a walk and struck out five Red Birds. Chuck Stevens, first man up in the ninth when the score was tied, belted the second pitch over the right field wall to end the game.

Minneapolis received even more sensational pitching from Wilfred Lefebvre as the Millers dropped St. Paul, 3 to 0.

Indianapolis and Louisville traveled 10 innings before the Tribe won out, 8 to 5.

The Kansas City - Milwaukee game was postponed.

Gordon Returns To Batting Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Joseph Lowell Gordon, the flashy second baseman of the New York Yankees, never has batted higher than .284 in his four terms in the American league, but he is not giving up in his quest of the 1942 batting crown.

The flash has led the hitters in the junior circuit most of the season, but a slump in the last couple of weeks made him surrender the lead for awhile.

Yesterday Gordon showed that he still is in the running, however, by banging out two doubles and two singles for a perfect day at the plate and thus regained the No. 1 spot among the American league hitters with a .347 average.

This was three points better than Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and 11 points ahead of Boston's Bobby Doerr, who held third place in the ranking.

Pete Reiser of the Brooklyn Dodgers, last year's National league champ, continued to pace the senior circuit with a .356 percentage, comfortably ahead of Teammate Joe Medwick, who sported a .343 mark.

Whirlaway Set To Break Money Record Tomorrow

SEABISCUIT . . . WON $437,730

WHIRLAWAY . . . WON $404,486

Seabiscuit's all-time high money-winning record for race horses, $437,730, may be surpassed tomorrow at Suffolk Downs race track for Whirlaway, "Mr. Longtail" of the Warren Wright stable of Calumet Farm, is not only an entry but also an odds-on favorite. Whirlaway, new second to the 'Biscuit with total earnings of $404,486, can pick up enough in the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap July 15 to top the Charles S. Howard champion's total, piled up by winning 33 races in his career, now ended. Whirly, winner of the Kentucky Derby last year and many of the other big races, is expected to win July 15 despite the fact he's topweighted at 130 pounds for the mile and one-eighth distance.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By SID FEDER
(Pinch Hitting for Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Jake Mintz, the profound Pittsburgh professor of scrambled sentences has lined up a Claudio Villar-Harry Bobo brawl to top off his July 27 fight show in Smokytown. . . . Lou Boudreau will be 25 Friday—and definitely doesn't expect birthday greetings from Leo Durocher.

The Cleveland Indians have the inside track for Ed Robinson, the Baltimore first sacker. . . . Don't look now, but Van Lingle Mungo, the Havana Romeo, is making motions toward a comeback with Minneapolis. . . . Add interesting thoughts: Van Lingle and Babe Phelps, a couple of apples of Larry MacPhail's eye, hooking up as a National league battery somewhere and beating the Dodgers out of the pennant. . . . (That's what indigestion does to you.)

BOUNCING AROUND.

For one who's earned a rest, old King Carl Hubbell certainly isn't getting any soft touches these days. . . . So far this season, the only clubs he's started against have been the Cards and Dodgers—the top two. . . . Joe Muscato gets Jimmy Bivins in a ten-rounder in Cleveland July 23 as a reward for the way he took care of Lem Franklin there a couple of weeks ago.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Art Edson, Oklahoma City Times: Maybe Warneke wasn't the ace in the Cards' deck, but in a race like this wouldn't even a ten spot come in handy occasionally? . . . And Jack Carberry of the Denver Post puts it this way: Up to this point in the National league race, the Cards have been just too bad to be true.

Simon-Pures Begin Tourney

Fourscore Swingers Begin Qualifying Round.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Down Maketewah country club's fairways about four score Simon-pure golfers set out today on an 18-hole qualifier for four days of match play to determine Ohio"s 1942 amateur champion.

Tribe Rests After Defeat

Limited to Three Hits, Blanked By Senators.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Coming into town with a .666 average on their current eastern tour, the Cleveland Indians took a busman's holiday today and watched the Detroit Tigers play the New York Yankees.

For the redskins, who dropped a 7-0 decision to the Washington Senators last night, it was a chance to gain their equilibrium before opening a three game series with the World Champions tomorrow.

* * *

After winning two out of three in Philadelphia and grabbing a double header in Washington, the Clevelanders were limited to three singles by Walt Masterson before 5,000 in the nation's capital. Oris Hockett got his hit in the first inning, and Roy Weatherly stroked another in the sixth.

Although Washington was leading 5-0 in the seventh inning, the Redskins put forth a threat which had Senator pitchers warming up in the bull pen.

Kenny Keltner was safe when Shortstop Johnny Sullivan booted his grounder. Jeff Heath lined out, but Les Fleming singled, sending Keltner to third. Lou Boudreau walked to fill the sacks, and there was considerable activity among the Nat relief hurling corps. But before they could warm up to a fast ball, Ray Mack had knocked into a double play and the Redskin threat had ended.

Mid-Atlantic Has Slugging Matches

DAYTON —(AP)— There was some fancy slugging around the Mid-Atlantic circuit last night.

The revived Dayton Ducks whammed out a 15-1 victory over the tailend Zanesville Cubs, and Canton butchered Erie 16 to 4.

The Ducks' big inning was the fifth. Thirteen men went to the plate and eight runs came home.

* * *

Canton's attack included seven doubles, a triple and a homer. The Pups did their best in the sixth when eight runs were scored and 14 men batted.

* * *

Charleston and Springfield had a nice quiet evening by contrast. The Senators won 3 to 2, although outhit eight to six.

SOLDIERS IN ALASKA GET FISHING TACKLE

(Wide World Features)

SEATTLE — Seattle sportsmen have turned the wartime motto to "keep 'em fishing."

* * *

An appeal for fishing tackle to provide recreation for service men in Alaska, where there's a heap more chance for fun at fishing than at night clubs, has brought in an array of tackle that would make a boy's—or a salmon-snagging sergeant's—eyes bulge.

Rods, reels, lines, plugs and leaders — just about everything but bent pins—are included in the collection that has flooded in since an appeal was issued to sportsmen.

LOWE BROTHERS HIGH STANDARD PRIMER makes the complete painting job last longer because it holds and seals due to controlled penetration. It minimizes the danger of peeling, scaling and cracking. Being practically non-absorbent it affords "tooth" or "grip" for the following coat. It seals all surfaces and is ideal—

FOR BOTH NEW WORK AND REPAINTING

1. It "holds fast" and seals the various surfaces to be painted — both new work and repainting.
2. Controlled penetration defeats absorption and makes a perfect foundation for finish coat.
3. None of the oil in the second coat is absorbed by High Standard Primer.
4. There is no weakening of the oil film.
5. The danger of paint failure is minimized.

Thelma Linster Qualifies Fourth In State Amateur

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A "sweet 16" started in quest of the 23rd Ohio women's golf championship today at Columbus Country club, as the title flight qualifiers launched four days of match play, winding up with Friday's 36-hole finals.

* * *

Miss Neoma Copic, defending queen and 1939 state publinks champ, was opposed by Claire Doran of Cincinnati in the opening clash, and the Maumee miss was an oddson favorite. Miss Copic fired an 83, seven over feminine par, to win the qualifying medal yesterday, while Miss Doran, who played with her, came home in 89.

* * *

Other qualifying scores:

Mrs. James Platt, jr., Dayton, 84; Peggy Kirk, Findlay, 85; Mrs. Thelma Linster, Mansfield, state public links champion, 87; Betty Lou Boren, Dayton, 87; Marjorie Wendel, Dayton, 88; Janet Shock, Dayton, 88.

Mrs. Caryol Jean Sherrets, Coshocton, 88; Mary Ann Herron, Akron, 89; Mrs. Ed Reese, Cincinnati, 92; Dolly Schildmiller, Cincinnati, 92; Theda Hill, Akron, 93; Carol Diringer, Tiffin, 93; Mrs. Edwin Tasker, Toledo, 94; Mrs. Frank Dine, Lima, 95, and Mrs. Frances Thomas, Columbus, 95.

One place in the title bracket was to be decided before today's match play got under way, Mrs. Frank Dine of Lima and Mrs. Francis Thomas of Columbus having a "sudden death" playoff on tap after deadlocking at 95 for the final qualifying berth. The winner plays Carol Lee Sherrets of Coshocton.

Sportsmen To Meet In City

Summer Session Set For Mansfield Aug. 23.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The League of Ohio Sportsmen will hold its summer conference at the Mansfield-Leland hotel in Mansfield, Sunday, Aug. 23, it was announced today by Secretary Tudor Wilson, following an executive committee meeting in Columbus.

A 10-point program will be placed before the league's representative body at that time. Louis Bromfield, noted author from Lucas, O., will be one of the principal speakers at Saturday's pre-conference ceremonies, which will be under the supervision of local officials.

The executive committee adopted two resolutions in its all day session, which will be submitted to the state division of conservation and natural resources.

The excess of game in view of the army of hunters that have been called by the armed forces must be harvested in some way, and the league is recommending to the conservation department that either the season be extended, the bag limit be increased or a combination of the alternatives be effected. The other issue that the league is advocating is the legalization of archery methods in killing deer which are migrating into Ohio from Pennsylvania.

At present there is no statute permitting the killing of deer in Ohio, but the league feels that with a heavy influx of the animals necessitates some measure which will aid in the preservation of farm property which might otherwise be destroyed.

NEW LONDON — "American Hero Day," a day set aside by the treasury department to honor the men in service, by an increased War Bond and Stamp sale, will be observed in New London on Friday.

A bond and stamp quota of $100 for each of the 110 men in service from this area, has been set as a goal for that day.

Every merchant will be contacted in an effort to secure their whole hearted cooperation in selling stamps over the counter. W. R. Lawrence, cashier of the Savings and Loan bank here, and J. L. O'Hara, postmaster, have announced that bot hthe bank and postoffice will be open until 9:00 p. m. for the sale of bonds.

Special material will be placed in every home prior to Friday, outlining the campaign, and its goal. All householders are urged to display their flags that day, and a special sale committee of young ladies, suitably attired, will be on the streets.

These matters were discussed, and the plan started, at the Monday luncheon of the Rotary club. Delbert Barnes and A. W. Fitch were named to see that all necessary information gets into the hands of every merchant.

This project is sponsored by the local Rotary club, but is being built by contributions received from the community. William R. Lawrence at the savings bank here, who is acting as treasurer for this fund, reports that contributions have been coming in rather slowly, but that all contributions, large or small, will be gladly received.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Wee Willie Reinka is the latest member of last year's Mansfield Braves to enlist in armed service, but the chubby little outfielder may have to wait several months before he gets in the army.

He's enlisted in the air corps, but let's let Bill tell the story in his own way. Here's a letter I got from him yesterday, written from the Hotel McAlpin in New York:

Hello Rex: Just a line while on my vacation to let you know that I have enlisted in the Army air corps cadet selection program. I passed the mental exam on July 3rd and the physical on July 6th. We were sworn in on Thursday morning at 11 a. m. in the federal building in Detroit.

I am on ten days notice but may not be called for several months. I have to wait until there's an opening at one of the training fields. If I am fortunate enough to pass all my training in an acceptable manner I'll be commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army air corps.

How do you like the way Kuzava and Byers are going down in Charleston? It sure gives me a thrill to see the boys with their low earned run averages.

I believe I'm supposed to play in Findlay next Tuesday night. (That would be tonight.) I play for the Detroit Pepsi-Cola team in the Class A Federation league on Sundays.

Frank Ankenbrandt plays second base and is playing a great game in there. You may remember him from the days of Dewey Stover's managing.

* * *

Well, Rex, I hope everything is going all right down in Mansfield. Sorry not to have seen you when I was down the last part of May. Keep hustling, and best of luck. As ever, Bill Reinka.

* * *

Nice letter Bill, but who told you I was hustling in this hot weather? And thanks for the letter. It's the very nicest way of hustling out a column that I can think of.

Completing this mail column today comes a postcard from Joe Lesch, former head man in Mansfield's softball and basketball leagues, and manager of Yuncker Sports teams.

Joe writes from San Antonio, Tex.: "Boy, this army life at Kelley field is really tough, but swell so far. School, drill, calisthenics, cross country runs two to three miles. Getting along swell. How's everything in Mansfield?"

Some of Joe's old playmates in Mansfield sports might drop him a line and let him know "How's everything in Mansfield."

Yankees Regain Margin

Tribe and Red Sox Fail To Keep Pace.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

THE American league has just suffered another chill in the region of its pennant race.

The New York Yankees beat down the Detroit Tigers again yesterday 4-2 and the Washington Senators surprisingly shut out the Cleveland Indians 7-0 in a night game.

These results, coming as they did on the heels of the Boston Red Sox' double somersault before the St. Louis Browns Sunday, placed an emphatic damper on whatever rivals were rash enough to think the world champions were collapsing.

* * *

All season long Detroit has been the most troublesome of the Yanks' opponents and the Tigers were tough to handle yesterday even though Lefty Gomez held them to four hits and fanned seven while going the route for the second time this year.

The Yanks' victory moved them five full games in front of the idle Red Sox.

The Cleveland Indians, who had won four straight and 11 of their last 14 (excluding a tie), meanwhile suffered a rude jolt at the nation's capital and saw their third place distance from the leaders swell to seven games.

Young Walter Masterson was the No. 1 boy for the Senators, holding Cleveland to three scattered singles while his teammates pelted three pitchers for ten hits.

* * *

In the only other game, also a night session, the Philadelphia Athletics nosed out the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 11 innings.

The only game scheduled in the National league, Philadelphia at Cincinnati, was postponed.

Mud Hens Start Winning Streak

(By Associated Press)

The Toledo Mud Hens, rewarded with 10 wins and only four losses for good pitching and snappy ball-playing the first half of July, shortly will travel west and it won't be at all surprising if they carry a fancy winning streak along with them.

Although they're far down in seventh place with only 42 victories and 47 defeats for the season, the Mud Hens have rung up seven straight triumphs, none more sparkling than last night's 2 to 1 success against second-place Columbus.

Johnny Marcum gave up only six hits, allowed nary a walk and struck out five Red Birds. Chuck Stevens, first man up in the ninth when the score was tied, belted the second pitch over the right field wall to end the game.

Minneapolis received even more sensational pitching from Wilfred Lefebvre as the Millers dropped St. Paul, 3 to 0.

Indianapolis and Louisville traveled 10 innings before the Tribe won out, 8 to 5.

The Kansas City - Milwaukee game was postponed.

Gordon Returns To Batting Lead

NEW YORK—(AP)—Joseph Lowell Gordon, the flashy second baseman of the New York Yankees, never has batted higher than .284 in his four terms in the American league, but he is not giving up in his quest of the 1942 batting crown.

The flash has led the hitters in the junior circuit most of the season, but a slump in the last couple of weeks made him surrender the lead for awhile.

Yesterday Gordon showed that he still is in the running, however, by banging out two doubles and two singles for a perfect day at the plate and thus regained the No. 1 spot among the American league hitters with a .347 average.

* * *

This was three points better than Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and 11 points ahead of Boston's Bobby Doerr, who held third place in the ranking.

Pete Reiser of the Brooklyn Dodgers, last year's National league champ, continued to pace the senior circuit with a .356 percentage, comfortably ahead of Teammate Joe Medwick, who sported a .343 mark.

Whirlaway Set To Break Money Record Tomorrow

SEABISCUIT . . . WON $437,730

WHIRLAWAY . . . WON $404,486

Seabiscuit's all-time high money-winning record for race horses, $437,730, may be surpassed tomorrow at Suffolk Downs race track for Whirlaway, "Mr. Longtail" of the Warren Wright stable of Calumet Farm, is not only an entry but also an odds-on favorite. Whirlaway, new second to the 'Biscuit with total earnings of $404,486, can pick up enough in the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap July 15 to top the Charles S. Howard champion's total, piled up by winning 33 races in his career, now ended. Whirly, winner of the Kentucky Derby last year and many of the other big races, is expected to win July 15 despite the fact he's topweighted at 130 pounds for the mile and one-eighth distance.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By SID FEDER
(Pinch Hitting for Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Jake Mintz, the profound Pittsburgh professor of scrambled sentences has lined up a Claudio Villar-Harry Bobo brawl to top off his July 27 fight show in Smokytown. . . . Lou Boudreau will be 25 Friday—and definitely doesn't expect birthday greetings from Leo Durocher.

IVORY HUNT.

The Cleveland Indians have the inside track for Ed Robinson, the Baltimore first sacker. . . . Don't look now, but Van Lingle Mungo, the Havana Romeo, is making motions toward a comeback with Minneapolis. . . . Add interesting thoughts: Van Lingle and Babe Phelps, a couple of apples of Larry MacPhail's eye, hooking up as a National league battery somewhere and beating the Dodgers out of the pennant. . . . (That's what indigestion does to you.)

BOUNCING AROUND.

For one who's earned a rest, old King Carl Hubbell certainly isn't getting any soft touches these days. . . . So far this season, the only clubs he's started against have been the Cards and Dodgers—the top two. . . . Joe Muscato gets Jimmy Bivins in a ten-rounder in Cleveland July 23 as a reward for the way he took care of Lem Franklin there a couple of weeks ago.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Art Edson, Oklahoma City Times: Maybe Warneke wasn't the ace in the Cards' deck, but in a race like this wouldn't even a ten spot come in handy occasionally? . . . And Jack Carberry of the Denver Post puts it this way: Up to this point in the National league race, the Cards have been just too bad to be true.

Simon-Pures Begin Tourney

Fourscore Swingers Begin Qualifying Round.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Down Maketewah country club's fairways about four score Simon-pure golfers set out today on an 18-hole qualifier for four days of match play to determine Ohio's 1942 amateur champion.

By nightfall 19-year-old Frankie Stranahan of Toledo ought to know who'll be chief contenders for the crown he's defending.

Thirty-six holes of match play are booked for Wednesday and Thursday, semi-finals Friday and finals Saturday.

Clay Gaddie, Terrace Park pro, and John Joseph, Host club amateur, won the pro-amateur best ball tournament which opened the Ohio Golf association's 39th annual competition yesterday. They had a five under-par 67. Gaddie carded a 70. Gaddie won $24; Joseph $16 in war stamps.

Three Cincinnati pairs tied for the remaining $50 prize money—Sonny Startsman and Pro Curtis Bryan, Frank Berling and Pro Fred Miley, and Cleophas McVicker and Pro Bob Strauss. All had 69's.

Stranahan and Cal Wilson, also of Toledo, won the amateur-amateur best ball with a 70, to split $52, while the remaining $63 was divided among three Cincinnati pairs carding 71's—John Finn and Nelson Ruddy, Joseph and McVicker, and Don Gill and Roy Elliott.

GETS NEW JOB

COLUMBUS — (AP) — George Hood has resigned as Jackson, O., high school coach to become coach of all sports at suburban Grandview high school.

Tribe Rests After Defeat

Limited to Three Hits, Blanked By Senators.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Coming into town with a .666 average on their current eastern tour, the Cleveland Indians took a busman's holiday today and watched the Detroit Tigers play the New York Yankees.

For the redskins, who dropped a 7-0 decision to the Washington Senators last night, it was a chance to gain their equilibrium before opening a three game series with the World Champions tomorrow.

* * *

After winning two out of three in Philadelphia and grabbing a double header in Washington, the Clevelanders were limited to three singles by Walt Masterson before 5,000 in the nation's capital. Oris Hockett got his hit in the first inning, and Roy Weatherly stroked another in the sixth.

Although Washington was leading 5-0 in the seventh inninng, the Redskins put forth a threat which had Senator pitchers warming up in the bull pen.

Kenny Keltner was safe when Shortstop Johnny Sullivan booted his grounder. Jeff Heath lined out, but Les Fleming singled, sending Keltner to third. Lou Boudreau walked to fill the sacks, and there was considerable activity among the Nat relief hurling corps. But before they could warm up to a fast ball, Ray Mack had knocked into a double play and the Redskin threat had ended.

SOLDIERS IN ALASKA GET FISHING TACKLE

(Wide World Features)

SEATTLE — Seattle sportsmen have turned the wartime motto to "keep 'em fishing."

* * *

An appeal for fishing tackle to provide recreation for service men in Alaska, where there's a heap more chance for fun at fishing than at night clubs, has brought in an array of tackle that would make a boy's—or a salmon-snagging sergeant's—eyes bulge.

* * *

Rods, reels, lines, plugs and leaders — just about everything but bent pins—are included in the collection that has flooded in since an appeal was issued to sportsmen.

HOLDS AND SEALS FOR A Longer-Lasting PAINT JOB

LOWE BROTHERS HIGH STANDARD PRIMER makes the complete painting job last longer because it holds and seals due to controlled penetration. It minimizes the danger of peeling, scaling and cracking. Being practically non-absorbent it affords "tooth" or "grip" for the following coat. It seals all surfaces and is ideal—

FOR BOTH NEW WORK AND REPAINTING

1. It "holds fast" and seals the various surfaces to be painted — both new work and repainting.
2. Controlled penetration defeats absorption and makes a perfect foundation for finish coat.
3. None of the oil in the second coat is absorbed by High Standard Primer.
4. There is no weakening of the oil film.
5. The danger of paint failure is minimized.

Thelma Linster Qualifies Fourth In State Amateur

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A "sweet 16" started in quest of the 23rd Ohio women's golf championship today at Columbus Country club, as the title flight qualifiers launched four days of match play, winding up with Friday's 36-hole finals.

* * *

Miss Neoma Copic, defending queen and 1939 state publinks champ, was opposed by Claire Doran of Cincinnati in the opening clash, and the Maumee miss was an oddson favorite. Miss Copic fired an 88, seven over feminine par, to win the qualifying medal yesterday, while Miss Doran, who played with her, came home in 89.

* * *

Other qualifying scores:

Mrs. James Platt, jr., Dayton, 84; Peggy Kirk, Findlay, 85; Mrs. Thelma Linster, Mansfield, state public links champion, 87; Betty Lou Boren, Dayton, 87; Marjorie Wendel, Dayton, 88; Janet Shock, Dayton, 88.

Mrs. Caryol Jean Sherrets, Coshocton, 88; Mary Ann Herron, Akron, 89; Mrs. Ed Reese, Cincinnati, 92; Dolly Schildmiller, Cincinnati, 92; Theda Hill, Akron, 93; Carol Diringer, Tiffin, 93; Mrs. Edwin Tasker, Toledo, 94; Mrs. Frank Dine, Lima, 95, and Mrs. Frances Thomas, Columbus, 95.

Janet Shock, Dayton's blond beauty who won the title in 1938 and 194., had Mrs. Theda Hill of Akron as her opponent, while Mrs. Linster of Mansfield, winner of the state publinks laurels the last two campaigns, was paired with Mrs. Edwin Reese of Cincinnati.

* * *

One place in the title bracket was to be decided before today's match play got under way, Mrs. Frank Dine of Lima and Mrs. Francis Thomas of Columbus having a "sudden death" playoff on tap after deadlocking at 95 for the final qualifying berth. The winner plays Carol Lee Sherrets of Coshocton.

Sportsmen To Meet In City

Summer Session Set For Mansfield Aug. 23.

COLUMBUS—(NS)—The League of Ohio Sportsmen will hold its summer conference at the Mansfield-Leland hotel in Mansfield, Sunday, Aug. 23, it was announced today by Secretary Tudor Wilson, following an executive committee meeting in Columbus.

A 10-point program will be placed before the league's representative body at that time. Louis Bromfield, noted author from Lucas, O., will be one of the principal speakers at Saturday's pre-conference ceremonies, which will be under the supervision of local officials.

The executive committee adopted two resolutoins in its all day session, which will be submitted to the state division of conservation and natural resources.

The excess of game in view of the army of hunters that have been called by the armed forces must be harvested in some way, and the league is recommending to the conservation department that either the season be extended, the bag limit be increased or a combination of the alternatives be effected. The other issue that the league is advocating is the legalization of archery methods in killing deer which are migrating into Ohio from Pennsylvania.

At present there is no statute permitting the killing of deer in Ohio, but the league feels that with a heavy influx of the animals necessitates some measure which will aid in the preservation of farm property which might otherwise be destroyed.

A bond and stamp quota of $100 for each of the 110 men in service from this area, has been set as a goal for that day.

These matters were discussed, and the plan started, at the Monday luncheon of the Rotary club. Delbert Barnes and A. W. Fitch were named to see that all necessary information gets into the hands of every merchant.

This project is sponsored by the local Rotary club, but is being built by contributions received from the community. William R. Lawrence at the savings bank here, who is acting as treasurer for this fund, reports that contributions have been coming in rather slowly, but that all contributions, large or small, will be gladly received.

REVEAL DAMAGE

VICHY —(U.P.)— The four-mile dike at Cherbourg protecting the port from heavy seas blown across the channel at its widest point was damaged seriously by RAF raids early in May.

German military authorities have ordered the immediate repair of the dike despite the shortage of cement in France, and priority has been given to the delivery of materials to prevent the widening of the breach and serious damage to the installation.

IRREGULARITY PROVES ORDER ON STOCK MART

Wall Street Hunts Clue To Definite Trend, Studies Decline in Loans.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The stock market searched unsuccessfully for a definite trend in today's early dealings.

Up a shade at a quiet opening were Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania, General Electric and Douglas Aircraft. Small declines were posted for Glenn Martin, N. Y. Central, Anaconda, and U.S. Steel.

Financial analysts noted the federal reserve survey disclosing loans to commerce, industry and agriculture by member banks in 101 cities continued their decline during the week ended July 8. The latest drop amounted to $13,000,000.

Airline company issues came in for study in view of estimates this industry in the first quarter, benefitting appreciably from war-stimulated traffic, enjoyed net income above $1,000,000 against a net loss of $32,000,000 in the first three months of 1941.

MOONHOLLOW + + +

CHAPTER I

Gordon Blake listened as he pressed the pearl button. From inside, the chime was mellow, as though he had struck a golden gong. Before him, the ivory entrance was changing into gold as late sunlight glinted on the polished surface of the door.

He stood stiffly as though readying himself to meet the shock of a miracle. He mused: "Gordon Blake, my lad, entering the front door to your earthly paradise. Behind that door waits Audrey: Add modesty to her many virtues. She never told you about this place of hers. She's like Alice—she's leading you into Wonderland."

The door opened slowly and revealed what was almost a Cheshire Cat. But it wasn't, that is, except for the grin, a rather fixed grin, in a stiff face.

Gordon Blake tried to return the smile, failed and attempted to cover up with, "Why, hello, I'm—"

"Yes, I know that. You're Mr. Blake. Mrs. Morley's new husband. Come in. I am Oliver. I'll tell Madame you have arrived."

Gordon handed him a weather-beaten Borsalino and a tweed topcoat; and the formal, slow-stepping butler took them as though doing a minor favor.

"And now, sir, perhaps you would rest a moment while I call Madame."

The butler stood aside as he said this; lips pursed, the smile gone. The ice-blue eyes stared through Gordon Blake vacantly. But the new master of Moonhollow felt their slight chill following him as he trod a soft silk Kirmanshan. The stiff figure followed him, moving in an odd way, as though pulled or jerked by wires.

"The fellow's old and stuffy. But probably a true blue family—detainer. Let's hope, anyway," thought Gordon as he faced the servant in the darkening living-room.

"A moment, sir. There's a glass here." The figure bent methodically over a silver Tantalus—lifted a cut glass stopper from a decanter, opened a silver cigaret box, bowed half-heartedly and murmured.

"Now I will call Madame." As he reached the panelled walnut door, he flicked on bracket lights, then turned to Gordon Blake saying, "I hope you like your new home," and bowed out.

"Well, I don't know whether you'll help me like it, you old icicle," Gordon was ready to answer, but pressed a lean finger to firm lips and began counting to ten silently. "Mustn't start off left-footed, laddy buck. This is your future — no missteps — though," and at that point he thought of Oliver and the lettuce—cool reception.

"I don't like his mention of me as 'Mrs. Morley's new husband.' And he had to add that I had arrived, just as though he were saying I was her new hat from Fifth avenue. Well I have arrived, Oliver, and I aim to stay, with my wife Audrey—because I love her."

He offered her a silent toast, and then wandered, giving his feet and eyes their first touch of his new home. It was the master model of what he had seen from time to time in slick magazines. The living-room was contemporary color-schemed; white, pale green and blue, with a turbaned, flamboyant blackamoor presiding over all. Gordon touched the blackamoor's turban, saying, "Nice to see you here, dark boy. I remember you. Audrey and I dug you up at the wharf antique shop at Charleston. She has a taste for oddities." A set grin was on the blackamoor's wooden face.

Modern and period pieces were blended to modern conclusion in the long panelled room. All of it showed the touch of the Audrey he knew. At his end of the living-room were prints of cavalry riders, splendid in busbies. There were chairs, slip-covered in deep pink cloth that was rough to his touch as sail cloth. A sofa, covered with antique beige, invited him, he rested his glass on a cocktail table of gold and mirror and smiled at his image.

It was a face you would remember—one which men would respect and women admire—a face seen occasionally in magazines, literary and economic, perhaps of a good-neighbor group in Mexico City. He had been there—and at Rio de Janeiro. They had been his two biggest assignments; had brought him an accolade from the Pan-American Press club; had produced material for ten magazine articles and follow-up assignments, mostly rewriting in some editor's office. A hard worker—a young man of promise.

His reflection revealed wide, full lips over a cleft chin, cheeks hollowed; dark, steady eyes, burning bright beneath the long-lashed lids and heavy eyebrows, the left one scarred at the corner, a mole on his left cheek; long, brown hair. He smiled, the image smiled back. "You've been smiling that way for over thirty years. Too serious. Too much thought—from work. Some morning I'm going to come down here, I want you to smile, a big and generous smile. Maybe some morning you'll even let the smile grow to a 100 per cent laugh."

There was another face in the mirror watching him. Gordon turned to the wall behind him, searching. It was a man's face in a portrait. The portrait hung above the dark Regency mantel. The wall lights cast shadows across it. And still the face burned through the shadows—almost alive. The eyes were dark, the nose thin, the forehead, narrow, the chin and ears pointed.

Gordon looked for the artist's name. There was none. The portrait was modern, whereas he had thought it might have been a painting of one of the imperious lords of the Inquisition; implacably—eyes set—one hand showing a glittering signet, "C."

"A handsome guy," Gordon thought. "Handsome—and dangerous." He tried vainly to recall whether Audrey had ever mentioned the man to him. She had told him little of her few family friends. There had been so little time at Sun Valley. She had told him something of her father—the dried-up multi-millionaire harrier of Wall Street wolves. He and Audrey's mother had travelled down together, in a transatlantic clipper off the Bahamas, leaving Audrey to private schools, governesses and business managers.

Too much money—fast friends and rich; teas, charities, polo, the social page were her world—all rich cream. Then one day it began to sour. So she left her whirligig world for quietness, the aloneness of brooding, snowy mountains.

He had met her on "Heartbreak Slope," a 3,000 foot ski-course with an 800 foot drop. It was a planned job. She spilled on the straight-down pattern and he spilled with her. They came up together, twisted and spitting snow.

That was the beginning. Then breakfast together, fluffy eggs, and hearty buckwheats. Steaming punch by a midnight fireplace. Pine trees in the crystal air. Stars so big that it seemed they could touch them. He had asked the question that had kept him burning since they met. The answer was a soft "yes" that led to an invitation to the bell and the book that same week.

He remembered how she looked that memorable day in a brown lightweight wool suit artfully tailored to look like a two-piece dress, set off with a lapel pin of white and red, a persian lamb hat and suede pumps with cartridge bows for those slim feet of hers.

Then the search for a home. And all the strange homes they had seen on their short honeymoon. Poe's hotel, near the Charleston docks where the great dreamer had died—the colonial houses in Williamsburg where they saw America in rebirth. All those vivid places they had visited on his slim earnings as writer, and now this—Audrey's home, a palace he never had dreamed about. Almost like moving into Buckingham.

Suddenly he was awfully glad about that honeymoon, on his money. And glad that he had married her, believing she lived in a wee cottage that would be much too small for lusty babies.

"Mrs. Morley — pardon—Mrs. Blake, sir, will be right down."

"Oh, yes, thank you, yes. I was dreaming for a moment—didn't hear you come in."

"Anything else you would like?" added Oliver.

"Why no—that is—yes. I'm curious about this portrait. Who's the gentleman in that picture frame?"

Gordon asked the question laughingly. The answer came seriously. "That, sir, is Madam's first husband, Mr. Morley!" The butler walked toward the door, his left arm crooked stiffly. Gordon walked to the picture, set his glass on the mantel, stared back at the portrait. Then the room lit up, as though the sun were looking in.

He spun around. Audrey was calling, "Gordon! Gordon!" from the doorway. She rushed across the room into his waiting arms.

"Hello, princess," he murmured, looking down at her. "Lift up that strong little chin." She did; her eyelids dropped. He kissed her full and hot, holding her hard against him.

She shook him by the lapels, "I've been lonely at Moonhollow without you. Don't spend any more of your time in stuffy old Washington offices. And darling, don't ever be a Washington correspondent. Keep writing more of those beautiful poems and articles that are like an inspiration. I love them so. What was it this time—not another tirade on lack of American unity?"

"Yes, it was. But tell me, Moonhollow! The name of this place? What does it mean?"

"Clifford Morley said it meant Enchantment!" She lifted her lips.

Gordon set her off for admiration. She stood like a cadet—head thrown back, shiny coppery hair falling to her square shoulders.

"Lordamighty man, don't hold me so far away." She slipped quickly under both arms and came up close, blue eyes full and soft gazing into his.

"Don't you'll knock me over. All right, there—" and she pushed him into the sofa, thrusting lithe tanned fingers at his nose when he tried to kiss her. But she let him win out.

"Audrey—it's all new to me," Gordon said, "I was born poor, remember my telling you about my father's pants that I had to wear, working my way through Northeastern university, college paper editor, my free lance jobs."

"That was worth a lot more to me than if you had said you owned a block of Standard Oil shares."

"You never told me about all this. Look." He clinked the cigaret box. "Silver!" Flicked his forefinger against the table edge, "Gold leaf! You've brought me into a palace!"

"I never mentioned all this because I didn't want to, Gordon," she said. "You were so real, so different in being honest. And you married a girl, Gordon, because you loved her. All the gaudy trappings didn't mean anything then—and they won't now. Anyway—what are these things worth compared to the value of the precious things you have in your heart and mind? Now come along—look at your new home."

She arose and pointed out the windows to the twilight shadowed land. "Moonhollow — Moonlight and evergreens and Long Island sound always grumbling to our sandy beach. What's it say Gordon? You know the answer?"

"Forever and ever," he answered, "ever and forever."

She smiled, and lowered her eyes. Then she stood gazing out the window, hands thrusts in the slashed green pockets of her back-buttoned dress; legs outstretched in flared skirt. "Simple little things." She caught his approving eyes. "Do you like me better than before? In Sun Valley?"

"I don't know yet," he answered.

She took his arm, pirouetted him. "I've changed some of the things in this room. It's finished there — by the prints. Next I'll start working on this side, by the mantel." He swung toward it, turning her with him until they both came face to face with the face in the portrait; then he turned toward Audrey. Her eyes had lost their sparkle — taken on a far-away look; her jaws were tightening.

"Yes," she added, "yes—there's still more to be done—heaps to shift and alter." She glanced again at the portrait, then disengaged her arm from Gordon's and walked away from him. "Now over there—I think we could get a Sheraton side table, maybe a kidney one, and on it we'll have a little gallery dripping with roses from the cutting garden or the hothouse. I'll tell Oliver about it."
